The ticket given above, as published exclusively in the News Review extra Saturday night, represents the results of the Republican county primaries.

The vote received by each candidate as semi-officially reported from every voting precinct in the county will be found in tabulated form elsewhere in these columns. With its excellent news service and the assistance of friends throughout the county, the News Review is able to present for the first time in the history of the city a tabulated report embodying complete returns on Monday. These figures are not likely to be materially changed by the official count, to be made in Lisbon tomorrow.

The defeated candidates for the most part took their downfall gracefully, and in some cases have already announced their candidacy two years hence. East Liverpool was at least 700 short of its regular vote, and this contributed in a great measure to the defeat of the home candidates. When it became apparent toward evening that the vote was going to be extremely light, even the oldest politicians were at a loss to account for it.

The Fourth ward polled the largest number of votes and when the polls closed the books of the two precincts contained the names of 590 voters. The Second came next with 549, while the Third, First and Fifth had but 473, 530 and 230, respectively, which is very light compared with other like occasions.

There were several surprises in a number of the contests. It was pretty generally conceded that Reeder

Hileman did not make the showing his friends expected, and it is not likely he will be out in two years, as he announced that he would not make a second attempt.

THE MEN NAMED UPON THE TICKET

A TICKET STRONG IN EVERY WAY

Every Man a Thorough Republican. Several Different Lines of Business Represented By the Men Who Were Nominated at Saturday's Primaries.

The make-up of the ticket is conceded by all Republicans to be exceptionally strong.

Henry W. Harter, the nominee for common pleas judge, resides in Canton, and is one of the leading attorneys of the Stark county bar. He has long taken an active part in politics and been an influential citizen of his home county and city. He was nominated without opposition at the convention of the district, comprising the counties of Clark, Columbiana and Carroll. He is a lawyer of first rate ability and eminently qualified for the responsible position to which he has been nominated.

C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, is Columbiana's choice for senator from this district, in case, as is now generally understood, the district is entitled to another senator. He is a young and rising member of the bar, who num-auditor, long served as deputy auditor and during his first term has carefully and faithfully looked after the interests of the county. There is not a flaw in his official record.

Eden Reeder, of Hanover township, is a successful farmer and an extensive stock dealer of wide acquaintance and prominence. He has never held any county office, but has always been a man of influence in his township. He is a man of keen judgment and good business ability, qualities which are demanded in the county commissioners' office.

George W. Armstrong, of Center township, the nominee for infirmary director, comes of an old and prominent Columbiana county family. His father was ex-Commissioner Andrew Armstrong and George W. was born in Elk Run township and brought up on a farm, followed school teaching for some years and afterward had some experience in the newspaper business. He was the first city editor of the Ohio Daily Patriot, of Lisbon, and has written much for the press. His poems have attracted more than local attention and some of them are excellent verse. His Republicanism is unquestioned.

SERIOUS CRASH OF STREET CARS

One Lady Fainted And Reports of Several Persons Being Injured Attracted a Large Crowd—A Broken Exhaust Pipe Prevented Cars Running

The worst street car accident in the East End so far this spring occurred Saturday afternoon when car No. 5, in charge of Motorman Wolf, ran into car No. 1, in charge of Motorman Humble, near the switch on Mulberry street. The glass in the ends of each car was broken and both cars were racked considerably.

All of the occupants were badly shaken up and Mrs. Thomas Hays, an aged lady, residing on Pennsylvania avenue, fainted and was assisted to her home by Office Spence. The extent of her injuries is not yet known, but it is feared that she may be injured internally.

The accident is alleged to have been due to negligence on the part of one or the other of the motormen. The cars were running double-headed, and were so near together that when the front car stopped at this crossing the rear car could not be, or was not, stopped in time to avoid striking the rear end of the front car.

A large crowd was soon attracted by the accident, and it was at first reported that several persons were injured and that one lady had two ribs broken. The only injury reported at the power house was that of Mrs. Hays.

The exhaust pipe at the power house gave way about 1:30 Sunday morning and the electric lights were off and no cars were running until late yesterday afternoon. The pipe had been leaking for some time. It was being replaced by a new one, and the cars ran last night without a single mishap, or the loss of a minute's time.

It was reported that Mrs. Lewis had three ribs broken and lost a pocket-book containing $27.

OLD LANDMARK GONE.

The Ancient Walnut Tree in the East End Uprooted Today.

The old walnut tree just above the East End station was taken out by root and hauled away by the section gang this morning.

This old tree was a familiar landmark to all the older residents. It formerly marked the eastern corporation line of the city. One of the most common sports of the boys was to ride on the freight trains just past here and get off in full view of the policeman, who could not arrest them while outside the limits.

It will be recalled that it was on this tree that a man who was afterward forced to leave the city was hanged in effigy a few years ago, because of his attitude toward the East End Pottery company, which was negotiating for his land.

Many an interesting game has been played under the shade of this tree, and the old residents regret to see it taken away.

DOUBLE WEDDING.

Four Young People Married Quietly at the East End M. E. Parsonage.

William C. Hamilton, of the East End, and Miss Alice Martin, of the city proper, and Linsley Mason Dearth, of the East End, and Miss Allie McCray, of the city proper, were quietly married at 7 o'clock Sunday evening at the parsonage of Rev. George W. Orcutt, of the Second M. E. church.

The young men were very close friends and the young ladies were intimate acquaintances, so all decided to have a double wedding. Mr. Dearth reached his majority on Sunday.

bers his friends by the hundreds, and is, moreover, a thorough Republican, and active in the affairs of his party. All who know him say he will make a legislator of whom the county will be proud.

Samuel Buell, of Salem, is the present representative to the legislature. He made an excellent record during his first term and is conceded to be entitled to another. He is a business man, alert and progressive, and thoroughly alive to the needs of the county, and will diligently look after them at Columbus.

D. W. Crist, who won as a candidate for representative over three others, resides at Moultrie, and is widely known as a music publisher and composer of music. He is a musician of ability, a successful man of business and a thorough Republican.

William A. Thompson, of Salineville, the nominee for county treasurer, is about 42 years of age, and has spent most of his life in that town. He is a man of high standing in the business world, a member of the banking firm of H. A. Thompson Banking company, a man of genial disposition and highly popular. He has never voted any but the Republican ticket. He is a member of the United Presbyterian church, is prominent in local and county politics. He is married and resides at Salineville.

Sheriff Noragon, who is a candidate for a second term, has made an efficient and capable officer. His public record is too well known to require comment. He runs his office on business principles and the people will make no mistake in reelecting him.

J. Frank Adams, the present county have been either wholly or partly demolished.

There are rumors of loss of life and at least 1,000 people are reported hurt. Wires are down in many directions and the reports cannot be verified.

ACTIVE SEASON

A Number of Drunks Arrested And Several Alleged Gamblers Pulled In.

The following persons were arrested since Saturday on the charge of drunkenness: Jack Sharp, arrested by Chief Thompson on Second street; John Daly, arrested by Officer Wood at McNicol's pottery; he got $1 and costs; Mike Swain, arrested by Officer Morris; Pat Mooney, arrested by Officers Mahoney and Stafford.

Robert Daniels and Charley Coulson were arrested by Officer Morris for fighting in Diamond alley. They got $5 each and costs.

Chief Thompson and Officers Wood, Rose, Dawson, Aufderheide and Davidson raided two shanty boats, landing nine culprits in jail. Ed Brown, Dave Brown, William Brown and Susie McCoy were found by the officers at a late hour last night in a shanty boat above Thompson's pottery. Ed, Dave and William Brown got $3 each and costs and Susie promised to leave town and was allowed to go.

High Scott, Harry Stuart, Bud Brooks, Bud Williams and Dan Johnson were amusing themselves by shooting crap in a down-the-river shanty boat. They were arrested on the charge of gambling and will likely be heard this evening.

would win out, but a great majority of the voters had underestimated the strength of Carnes, who was a good second in the race for commissioner. Hileman did not make the showing his friends expected, and it is not likely he will be out in two years, as he announced that he would not make a second attempt.

East Liverpool had three candidates for representative, and all were defeated.

The make-up of the ticket is conceded by all Republicans to be exceptionally strong.

Henry W. Harter, the nominee for common pleas judge, resides in Canton, and is one of the leading attorneys of the Stark county bar. He has long taken an active part in politics and been an influential citizen of his home county and city. He was nominated without opposition at the convention of the district, comprising the counties of Clark, Columbiana and Carroll. He is a lawyer of first rate ability and eminently qualified for the responsible position to which he has been nominated.

C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, is Columbiana's choice for senator from this district, in case, as is now generally understood, the district is entitled to another senator. He is a young and rising member of the bar, who num-auditor, long served as deputy auditor and during his first term has carefully and faithfully looked after the interests of the county. There is not a flaw in his official record.

Eden Reeder, of Hanover township, is a successful farmer and an extensive stock dealer of wide acquaintance and prominence. He has never held any county office, but has always been a man of influence in his township. He is a man of keen judgment and good business ability, qualities which are demanded in the county commissioners' office.

George W. Armstrong, of Center township, the nominee for infirmary director, comes of an old and prominent Columbiana county family. His father was ex-Commissioner Andrew Armstrong and George W. was born in Elk Run township and brought up on a farm, followed school teaching for some years and afterward had some experience in the newspaper business. He was the first city editor of the Ohio Daily Patriot, of Lisbon, and has written much for the press. His poems have attracted more than local attention and some of them are excellent verse. His Republicanism is unquestioned.

SERIOUS CRASH OF STREET CARS

The worst street car accident in the East End so far this spring occurred Saturday afternoon when car No. 5, in charge of Motorman Wolf, ran into car No. 1, in charge of Motorman Humble, near the switch on Mulberry street. The glass in the ends of each car was broken and both cars were racked considerably.

All of the occupants were badly shaken up and Mrs. Thomas Hays, an aged lady, residing on Pennsylvania avenue, fainted and was assisted to her home by Office Spence. The extent of her injuries is not yet known, but it is feared that she may be injured internally.

The accident is alleged to have been due to negligence on the part of one or the other of the motormen. The cars were running double-headed, and were so near together that when the front car stopped at this crossing the rear car could not be, or was not, stopped in time to avoid striking the rear end of the front car.

A large crowd was soon attracted by the accident, and it was at first reported that several persons were injured and that one lady had two ribs broken. The only injury reported at the power house was that of Mrs. Hays.

The exhaust pipe at the power house gave way about 1:30 Sunday morning and the electric lights were off and no cars were running until late yesterday afternoon. The pipe had been leaking for some time. It was being replaced by a new one, and the cars ran last night without a single mishap, or the loss of a minute's time.

It was reported that Mrs. Lewis had three ribs broken and lost a pocket-book containing $27.

OLD LANDMARK GONE.

The Ancient Walnut Tree in the East End Uprooted Today.

The old walnut tree just above the East End station was taken out by root and hauled away by the section gang this morning.

This old tree was a familiar landmark to all the older residents. It formerly marked the eastern corporation line of the city. One of the most common sports of the boys was to ride on the freight trains just past here and get off in full view of the policeman, who could not arrest them while outside the limits.

It will be recalled that it was on this tree that a man who was afterward forced to leave the city was hanged in effigy a few years ago, because of his attitude toward the East End Pottery company, which was negotiating for his land.

Many an interesting game has been played under the shade of this tree, and the old residents regret to see it taken away.

DOUBLE WEDDING.

Four Young People Married Quietly at the East End M. E. Parsonage.

William C. Hamilton, of the East End, and Miss Alice Martin, of the city proper, and Linsley Mason Dearth, of the East End, and Miss Allie McCray, of the city proper, were quietly married at 7 o'clock Sunday evening at the parsonage of Rev. George W. Orcutt, of the Second M. E. church.

The young men were very close friends and the young ladies were intimate acquaintances, so all decided to have a double wedding. Mr. Dearth reached his majority on Sunday.

have been either wholly or partly demolished.

There are rumors of loss of life and at least 1,000 people are reported hurt. Wires are down in many directions and the reports cannot be verified.

ACTIVE SEASON

A Number of Drunks Arrested And Several Alleged Gamblers Pulled In.

The following persons were arrested since Saturday on the charge of drunkenness: Jack Sharp, arrested by Chief Thompson on Second street; John Daly, arrested by Officer Wood at McNicol's pottery; he got $1 and costs; Mike Swain, arrested by Officer Morris; Pat Mooney, arrested by Officers Mahoney and Stafford.

Robert Daniels and Charley Coulson were arrested by Officer Morris for fighting in Diamond alley. They got $5 each and costs.

Chief Thompson and Officers Wood, Rose, Dawson, Aufderheide and Davidson raided two shanty boats, landing nine culprits in jail. Ed Brown, Dave Brown, William Brown and Susie McCoy were found by the officers at a late hour last night in a shanty boat above Thompson's pottery. Ed, Dave and William Brown got $3 each and costs and Susie promised to leave town and was allowed to go.

High Scott, Harry Stuart, Bud Brooks, Bud Williams and Dan Johnson were amusing themselves by shooting crap in a down-the-river shanty boat. They were arrested on the charge of gambling and will likely be heard this evening.

Sheriff Noragon, who is a candidate for a second term, has made an efficient and capable officer. His public record is too well known to require comment. He runs his office on business principles and the people will make no mistake in reelecting him.

Pastor Jordan Stated a Truth in a Way That Caused Smiles.

An amusing incident occurred last evening at the First Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. C. G. Jordan, had taken the life of the late General Harrison as a topic for his discourse and had reached the point where Harrison was about to enter the army. Rev. Mr. Jordan said: "Our land was enshrouded in darkness." Just as he reached the word "darkness" the electric lights went out, but the pastor continued his sentence as follows: "Then, as we are now."

There was suppressed laughter in all parts of the church which continued until the gas was lighted.

DERAILED THE CARS.

Youngsters at Play Cause Mischief And Get a Bad Fright.

Two cars standing on a switch of the East Liverpool Coal company yesterday proved too great a temptation for a number of small boys of that neighborhood, and they boarded the cars and loosened the brakes.

When the cars started to move the youngsters became frightened and jumped off. The cars ran a distance of 100 yards when they left the rails. The shifter this morning placed the cars on the track.

Bargaining in the Orient.

In Smyrna, Turkey and Egypt the bargaining language is about the same.

"What you give, lady?" "I won't give anything! I don't want it! What! Do you think I would carry that back to America?" "But you take hold of him. You feel him silk. I think you want to buy. Ver' cheap. Only four pound!" "Four pounds!" I say in French. "Oh, you don't want to sell. You want to keep it! And at that price you will keep it!"

"Keep it!" in a shrill scream. "Not want to sell? Me? I here to sell! I sell you everything you see! I sell you the shop!" More wheedlingly, "You give me 40 francs?"

"No," in English again. "I'll give you $2." "America! Liberty!" he cries, having cunningly established my nationality and flattering my country with oriental guile. "How much you give for him? Last price, now. Six dollars!"

We haggle over "last prices" for a quarter of an hour more, and after two cups of coffee amiably taken together and some general conversation I buy the thing for $3.—Lillian Bell in Woman's Home Companion.

Eating Railway Iron.

Iron for the blood has evidently been prescribed for the quails of Florida; at least, these birds are eating steel rails on the tracks of the sugar belt near Runnymede. The report, which is well authenticated, does not charge the quails with actually swallowing the rails, but it does say that they pick away their particles wherever they find a rusty spot where they are loosened.

From several points in the state comes the report of holes found in steel rails, and in cases they are large enough to seriously weaken the material. Where a rusty spot starts and is picked out, it naturally holds moisture, continues to rust, to be again picked out, and so the work of destruction goes on.

Railway engineers really believe that the quails take the iron tonic because they are not well and find that it relieves their distress.

The nomination for council in the Fourth ward came to Thomas F. Starkey unsolicited on his part. Mr. Starkey was born and lived in the Fourth ward. He stands for good city government, low taxation and the enforcement of law, which all good citizens demand. 242-a

EX-MAYOR'S SUICIDE

Was a Bosom Friend of an Embezzler. His Affairs May Have Been Effected.

Niles, Mich., March 25.—W. J. Gilbert, former mayor of this town, reputed to be wealthy and one of the best known and most respected residents of Barrien county, was found dead in a storehouse in the rear of his residence, where he had ended his life with a bullet.

Grief over the misfortune of a bosom friend is believed to have caused the suicide. Warm personal relations existed between Mr. Gilbert and Charles A. Johnson, cashier of the First National bank, who fled a few hours before the failure of that institution, and who was brought back under arrest from Ohio a few days ago, charged with wrecking the bank.

Mr. Gilbert was Johnson's legal adviser, and trusted him unreservedly. The two were much together and their regard for each other was a matter of common knowledge among their associates. They were engaged in many enterprises together, and both for nearly 30 years had taken a leading part, commercially and politically, in the development of the town.

How far Mr. Gilbert's business affairs were effected by Johnson's operations and the collapse of the First National bank only a full investigation of that institution's condition can disclose. Mr. Gilbert, aside from his own holdings, held many estates in trust, acted as guardian in several instances, and acted as loan agent for considerable capital. He did much business through Johnson's bank, and it is thought was a large loser through the failure.

Grand Rapids, Mich., 25.—When informed of the suicide of ex-Mayor Gilbert, of Niles, Johnson said he had known him for many years. "We were good friends, it is true," said he, "but it cannot be said he was one of my nearest and best friends. I cannot see how my troubles should have had anything to do with his act of suicide. He was a patron of the bank, but his balance on deposit at the time of the failure did not exceed $100."

New York Reform Committee Endorses Recommended Legislation to Drive It Out.

New York, March 25.—Leading Republican politicians of this city and state met in Senator Platt's rooms at the Fifth Avenue hotel and were in conference for several hours. As a result of the conference it was decided to attempt no police legislation this session.

It was asserted that the conference adjourned subject to the call of Senator Platt whenever in his judgment police legislation seemed necessary. All who were talked with said the conference was harmonious.

Long before the time for which the conference was called the corridors of the Fifth Avenue hotel were filled with state leaders and members of the legislature. Every one of the leaders summoned to the conference attended. There was a large sprinkling of local politicians, who were attracted to the place of conference, but who were not summoned as participants.

Though no one would say it directly, all who attended the conference admitted that it had come to the views of Governor Odell, and it was considered that he had virtually triumphed and that the organization was with him.

Lorn Blodgett Dead.

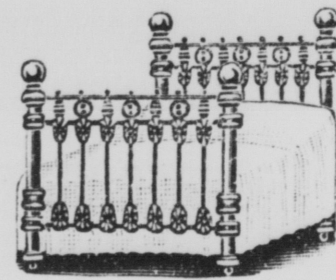

Philadelphia, March 25.—Lorn Blodgett, an eminent statistician and one of the foremost authorities on the higher economics, died here, aged 79 years. In 1851 he was made an assistant in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, in charge of researches on climatology. His works on atmospheric physics were among the first published in this country and performed an important part in establishing the science in the United States. In 1863 he took charge of the financial and statistical reports of the treasury department, and later became general appraiser of customs in Philadelphia. Subsequently he was made chief of the customs division of the treasury and also did governmental duty in New York. He resigned from the government service in 1877 and later held important Philadelphia positions.

MAN FOUND MURDERED.

Body Discovered in a Box Car, at Connellsville, Pa.

Cumberland, Md., March 25.—The body of a man apparently about 45 was found in a box car on the Baltimore and Ohio train when it pulled into the Connellsville ward. The man's head had been crushed in a blow, having evidently been delivered from behind with a blunt instrument. The man was well dressed and had a United States express card upon him, addressed to Edward Greenleaf, Cumberland, Md. He had called at the United States express office while here and stated that he was a friend of Greenleaf and had been requested to have a package which had been shipped here from Frederick shipped on the same receipt to Johnstown, Pa., which was done.

Grief over the misfortune of a bosom friend is believed to have caused the suicide. Warm personal relations existed between Mr. Gilbert and Charles A. Johnson, cashier of the First National bank, who fled a few hours before the failure of that institution, and who was brought back under arrest from Ohio a few days ago, charged with wrecking the bank.

Mr. Gilbert was Johnson's legal adviser, and trusted him unreservedly. The two were much together and their regard for each other was a matter of common knowledge among their associates. They were engaged in many enterprises together, and both for nearly 30 years had taken a leading part, commercially and politically, in the development of the town.

How far Mr. Gilbert's business affairs were effected by Johnson's operations and the collapse of the First National bank only a full investigation of that institution's condition can disclose. Mr. Gilbert, aside from his own holdings, held many estates in trust, acted as guardian in several instances, and acted as loan agent for considerable capital. He did much business through Johnson's bank, and it is thought was a large loser through the failure.

Grand Rapids, Mich., 25.—When informed of the suicide of ex-Mayor Gilbert, of Niles, Johnson said he had known him, for many years. "We were good friends, it is true," said he, "but it cannot be said he was one of my nearest and best friends. I cannot see how my troubles should have had anything to do with his act of suicide. He was a patron of the bank, but his balance on deposit at the time of the failure did not exceed $100."

New York Reform Committee Endorses Recommended Legislation to Drive It Out.

New York, March 25.—Leading Republican politicians of this city and state met in Senator Platt's rooms at the Fifth Avenue hotel and were in conference for several hours. As a result of the conference it was decided to attempt no police legislation this session.

It was asserted that the conference adjourned subject to the call of Senator Platt whenever in his judgment police legislation seemed necessary. All who were talked with said the conference was harmonious.

Long before the time for which the conference was called the corridors of the Fifth Avenue hotel were filled with state leaders and members of the legislature. Every one of the leaders summoned to the conference attended. There was a large sprinkling of local politicians, who were attracted to the place of conference, but who were not summoned as participants.

Though no one would say it directly, all who attended the conference admitted that it had come to the views of Governor Odell, and it was considered that he had virtually triumphed and that the organization was with him.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Once a week or oftener the NEWS REVIEW will publish a department of lodge news. Officers and members of the various orders are invited to contribute. The name and address of the writer must accompany every communication.

A new secret society has been instituted in East Liverpool and gives promise of becoming one of the most successful in the city. The Knights of the Royal Arch is the name of the new organization, and it is a fraternal and beneficial order. The new society had a charter list of 31, and the membership has been constantly increasing since its institution. The officers are as follows: Valiant commander, John Hoeman; lieutenant commander, A. E. Webber; chief orator, J. N. Nelson, Wellsville; recorder, A. R. Guthrie; treasurer, Frank Rigart; master of ceremonies, Michael O'Malley; captain of the guard, J. N. Crable; tiler, David Barnhart. The membership is made up of liquor dealers from this city and Wellsville. The national headquarters are located at Hot Springs, Ark., and all the affairs of the order are conducted from there.

At the meeting of the grand lodge of Ohio of the Fraternal Mystic Circle, held at Columbus this week, Cleveland was selected for the next convention. Officers were chosen as follows: Grand ruler, E. John Smith will accompany a number of other colored Masons on a fraternal visit to Steubenville this evening, the occasion being the organization of a chapter in that city. A number of candidates will be initiated, and the visitors will be banquetted by the new lodge.

The Ladies of the Golden Eagle, at their meeting last Friday evening, initiated several new candidates and received a number of applications. After all business was transacted the members were entertained by a very interesting musical program.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle, at their meeting last Tuesday evening, conferred the second degree on two candidates. At their meeting tomorrow evening they will confer the crusaders' degree on three candidates.

IN DARKNESS.

Pastor Jordan Stated a Truth in a Way That Caused Smiles.

An amusing incident occurred last evening at the First Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. C. G. Jordan, had taken the life of the late General Harrison as a topic for his discourse and had reached the point where Harrison was about to enter the army. Rev. Mr. Jordan said: "Our land was enshrouded in darkness." Just as he reached the word "darkness" the electric lights went out, but the pastor continued his sentence as follows: "Then, as we are now."

There was suppressed laughter in all parts of the church which continued until the gas was lighted.

Two cars standing on a switch of the East Liverpool Coal company yesterday proved too great a temptation for a number of small boys of that neighborhood, and they boarded the cars and loosened the brakes.

Bargaining In the Orient.

In Smyrna, Turkey and Egypt the bargaining language is about the same.

"What you give, lady?" "I won't give anything! I don't want it! What! Do you think I would carry that back to America?"

"But you take hold of him. You feel him silk. I think you want to buy. Ver' cheap. Only four pound!"

"Four pounds?" I say in French. "Oh, you don't want to sell. You want to keep it! And at that price you will keep it!"

"Keep it!" in a shrill scream. "Not want to sell? Me? I here to sell! I sell you everything you see! I sell you the shop!" More wheedlingly, "You give me 40 francs?"

"No," in English again. "I'll give you $2."

"America! Liberty!" he cries, having cunningly established my nationality and flattering my country with oriental guile. "How much you give for him? Last price, now. Six dollars!"

We haggle over "last prices" for a quarter of an hour more, and after two cups of coffee amiably taken together and some general conversation I buy the thing for $3.—Lillian Bell in Woman's Home Companion.

Eating Railway Iron.

Iron for the blood has evidently been prescribed for the quails of Florida; at least, these birds are eating steel rails on the tracks of the sugar belt near Rummymede. The report, which is well authenticated, does not charge the quails with actually swallowing the rails, but it does say that they pick away their particles wherever they find a rusty spot where they are loosened.

From several points in the state comes the report of holes found in steel rails, and in cases they are large enough to seriously weaken the material. Where a rusty spot starts and is picked out, it naturally holds moisture, continues to rust, to be again picked out, and so the work of destruction goes on.

Railway engineers really believe that the quails take the iron tonic because they are not well and find that it relieves their distress.

To the Voters of the Fourth Ward.

The nomination for council in the Fourth ward came to Thomas F. Starkey unsolicited on his part. Mr. Starkey was born and lived in the Fourth ward. Most all his life, by his close economy, good business judgment and financial management, he has accumulated considerable valuable property located in the Fourth ward. Consequently the voters will make no mistake in sending Mr. Starkey to council to look after their interests. He stands for good city government, low taxation and the enforcement of law, which all good citizens demand. 242-a

EX-MAYOR'S SUICIDE

Was a Bosom Friend of an Embezzler. His Affairs May Have Been Effected.

Niles, Mich., March 25.—W. J. Gilbert, former mayor of this town, reputed to be wealthy and one of the best known and most respected residents of Barrien county, was found dead in a storehouse in the rear of his residence, where he had ended his life with a bullet.

Grief over the misfortune of a bosom friend is believed to have caused the suicide. Warm personal relations existed between Mr. Gilbert and Charles A. TO SLAY THE CZAR

Student Plot Discovered by the Police and Warning Given the Monarch.

BLOODY FIGHT WITH WORKMEN

London, March 25.—The Daily Mail publishes the following, dated March 24, from a St. Petersburg correspondent:

"Yesterday (Saturday) 500 workmen from the Obuchow Metal works paraded on the Nevskol prospect. On the way thither they demolished the state brandy booths. Eight hundred Cossacks, with drawn swords, met the workmen and a sanguinary encounter ensued. The number of killed and wounded is kept secret.

"The police have discovered a plot against the life of the czar. It appears that a group of students drew lots and that the fatal choice fell to the son of a prominent general. The student told his father, and the latter informed the czar, imploring him to leave St. Petersburg."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Express says:

"In the last encounter at Narva Gate 100 workmen are reported to have been killed or wounded by the Cossacks."

St. Petersburg, March 25.—Karpovich, the assassin of M. Bogoliefpoff, Russian minister of public instruction, was sentenced to hard labor for life. He will be imprisoned in the Schlusselburg fortress, on an island in the Neva.

AROUSING MRS. NATION.

Police Officers Accompanied Her at Leavenworth, Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived here last evening from Leavenworth and left for St. Louis en route for Cincinnati, where she is booked to deliver half a dozen lectures. It was believed she would make an attempt at joint smashing in Leavenworth, but two policemen remained with her all the time she was in that city. She wanted to make a speech in the Leavenworth opera house, but this was locked against her. She then attempted to speak on the public square, but officers stopped her. Later she went to the southern part of the city and addressed an audience of about 500 persons on a vacant lot. She visited the National Soldiers' home at Fort Leavenworth and began abusing Governor Rowland for allowing a canteen to be run on the grounds. After listening to her a short time the governor called a captain of police and had her escorted off the grounds and placed on a car for the city. Along the route from Leavenworth to Kansas City she made rear platform speeches at different stops.

New York, March 25.—The Journal of Commerce today was expected to say in part:

As already stated, it is probable that Edwin Norton will be president of the new company and that W. H. and J. H. Moore will be members of the board of directors. It is further said that the American Tinplate company will have representatives on the new board.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 25.—Rev. J. J. Double Tragedy at Pine Ridge.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 25.—The federal authorities here have been notified of a double tragedy on the Pine Ridge Indian reservation. Louis Cottier, a Sioux of mixed blood, was shot and killed at his ranch, on Spring creek, by William Day, a full-blooded Indian policeman sent from Pine Ridge agency surrounded Day, who shot and killed himself rather than submit to arrest. The motive for the killing of Cottier is unknown.

BLOCKED BY ODELL

Platt Said His Declaration to Veto Prevents Further Police Legislation in New York.

New York, March 25.—Last evening Senator Platt gave out the following statement:

"The general opinion of those at the conference was that the police conditions existing in New York ought to have the attention of the legislature, but that it would be useless to pass any bill, as the governor has declared that he would veto it. Some of those present favored a state police law, and others favored a metropolitan district, but it was conceded by all that nothing should be done at present.

"I regret the situation, as I believe that some action by the legislature is important for the city and the Republican party, and I think that such will be the general public opinion soon. But if nothing is to be done, and if the present bad conditions are to be submitted to, the legislature is not responsible for that.

"If it turns out in the next municipal election that the judgment which I have formed upon this subject has been wrong, then I shall be glad that Tammany has been left in control of the police."

AGREED TO ODELL'S VIEWS.

Decided to Attempt No More Police Legislation, at Least Now.

New York, March 25.—The committee of fifteen sent a letter to Governor Odell, warmly endorsing the recommendation of the tenement house commission in regard to the driving out of vice from the tenement houses. The committee has devoted considerable time to this question, which was one of the things which called it into the field, and it is expected the full committee will go to Albany on Tuesday, when a hearing on the report of the tenement house commission will be held before the city's committee of the legislature. The letter reads in part as follows:

"The greatest of existing evils is the intrusion and wide extension of prostitution in tenement houses, the houses in which the great mass of wage earners are compelled to live. There will probably for a long time to come continue to be differences of opinion as to the degree in which it is possible to check social vice in our great cities, but there can be no two opinions as to the necessity of protecting children of tender years from close contact with depravity. An intimate acquaintance with adult vice should, at least, not be forced upon young children by permitting such vice to penetrate into the very houses in which they live. The cry of parents when they ask merely for the opportunity of bringing up their children in an atmosphere free from the pollution of the most degrading forms of moral evil, should surely be heeded."

The letter says that the law at present on the statute books has not met the situation and what is needed is a law that will place the responsibility for the existence of vice in the tenements on the shoulders of the landlords. This, the committee says, the legislation proposed by the tenement house commission will do.

Mitchell Wants to See Morgan.

New York, March 25.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' union, is in this city with the intention of seeing J. Pierpont Morgan and the heads of the important coal companies to consult about the situation in the coal fields, for the purpose, if possible, of averting a strike.

He was arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Fanning on the order of Inspector A. Power. In the absence of United States Commissioner C. M. Wilkins, Jackson was taken to Cleveland.

Beguiling Childhood.

When my little son could scarcely walk, says Rev. C. T. Brady, a western missionary, I took him to the cathedral one day, when I returned for something I had forgotten after morning service.

I left the child in the nave, and when I went back to him he had advanced half way up the middle aisle and was standing where the sun threw a golden light about his curly head. A tiny object he was in that great church.

It was very still. He was looking about in every direction in the most curious and eager way. To my fancy he seemed like a little angel when he said in his sweet, childish treble, which echoed and re-echoed beneath the vaulted roof:

"Papa, where's Jesus? Where's Jesus?"

He had been told that the church was the house of the Saviour, and on this, his first, visit he expected to see his Lord.

That baby is quite grown up now. Not in the faintest particular does he resemble an angel. The other day, when I rode off to the wars, he astonished even me with this request:

"Papa, if you get wounded, don't forget to bring me the bullet that knocks you out. I want it for a souvenir for my collection."

Fortunately for me, if unfortunately for him, I brought him no bullet.

SPREADING THE GOSPEL

Great Work by American Tract Society Shown In Report to Meeting at Washington.

Washington, March 25.—The Washington annual meeting of the American Tract society was held in the Gunton-Temple Memorial church, the Rev. Masa S. Fiske, pastor, presiding. The Rev. Judson Swift, field secretary, of New York, presented a brief report of the society's work. General O. O. Howard delivered an earnest address, setting forth the object and needs of the society. He gave from his own experience a somewhat detailed account of the tract society's work in the army, emphasizing how much good it accomplished during the recent Spanish war. He also told of what was being done in our island possessions. General Howard is the society's president, and is deeply interested in its work.

The secretary's report stated that the society was organized "to diffuse a knowledge of Christ as the Redeemer of sinners." In this work it has issued between 13,000,000 and 14,000,000 distinct publications at home and in the foreign field. The society, through its system of colportage, strives to carry the gospel message to the millions that are unreached by the churches. During 59 years of colportage over 15,000,000 family visits have been made, and nearly 10,000,000 families have been prayed with or spoken to on the subject of personal religion, while 16,500,000 pages of Christian reading have been left in their homes.

The society has been able to publish the gospel truth in 153 languages or dialects, and has aided the denominational mission boards in their work at home and abroad. During the year between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 pages of Christian literature in the Spanish language have been distributed in our island possessions, and 1,000,000 pages of selected reading have been distributed to the army and navy.

An effort is being made in Utah to place tracts in every Mormon home, by means of colporteur wagons and colporters, thus reaching the children and youth. New publications have been issued during the year in English, Spanish, Polish and German.

An earnest appeal is made for an increase of funds.

Bishop Joyce Advises Them to Carry Lost Sheep Back to Fold Instead of Scolding.

Stroudsburg, Pa., March 25.—In connection with the annual session of the Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal conference Bishop I. W. Joyce delivered an address on Christ's instructions to preachers in the Methodist Episcopal church. He said in part: "There is nothing so bad in the world as human nature, yet men should not be despised for wrongs committed in the past. The true preacher will not be continually nagging men for their faults; like the good shepherd, he will seek the wandering ones and not pelt them with stones, but lift them on their shoulders and bring them back to their true home. He urged the young men to take the master with them wherever they went, and then the coldest churches would be the most cheerful. It is not where you are, but what you are that brings success.

It is not so much what the preacher says, but how he says it. Do not have too much vinegar in your makeup. Service for Christ always pays.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick Dead.

Frankfort, Ky., March 25.—Mrs. Narcissa South Fitzpatrick, wife of ex-Congressman T. Y. Fitzpatrick, of the Tenth district, died here of pneumonia. Fitzpatrick's service in congress closed March 3, and he had since located here. Soon Died After Wife's Demise.

Cincinnati, March 25.—Frank B. Wright, publisher of Chic, and connected with Cincinnati papers for about 20 years, died suddenly, aged 42 years. His wife had died of pneumonia. He had been worried about her while afflicted with pneumonia himself, and died a few hours after his wife expired. Wright was not considered seriously afflicted until an hour before death.

Judge Bartholomew Dead.

Bismarck, S. D., March 25.—Judge Joseph M. Bartholomew, for about 10 years justice of the supreme court of this state, who retired from the bench Jan. 1, dropped dead on the walk in front of his residence in this city. He was recognized as an able lawyer and jurist and was one of the best public speakers in the state. He left a wife and one daughter.

THE BLACK VENUS.

An Ugly Stone Figure Worshipped by Peasants of Brittany.

Even false religions die hard, and there are reminders of all extinct faiths still existing in the world. One of the most curious relics of paganism which are still worshiped in a Christian country is the gigantic black stone figure of a woman which is to be found in a forest of the district of Morbihan, in Brittany.

It is known as the "Black Venus," but probably dates far back of the time when the Greeks and Romans worshiped that goddess. Antiquarians assert that this ugly idol belongs to the age of the serpent worshippers, one of whose subterranean temples is in the neighborhood. This would make the figure far older than the Christian era.

The statue is that of a huge, uncouth woman, with a sullen, angry countenance, her form enveloped in a loose mantle.

The superstitious Bretons have always worshiped the figure, asserting that it has power over the weather and the crops. If the idol is neglected, they declare that the grain dies on the ear, and if the anger of the black woman is further roused a tidal wave sweeps over Morbihan.

Twice the stone was cast into the sea by pious folk who hoped thereby to put an end to this idolatry, and twice the peasants dragged it back and set up an altar before it.

About two centuries ago Count Pierre de Lannion, on whose estate the figure stood, in order to save the statue from both friends and enemies, dragged it by 40 yoke of oxen to his own chateau and set it up in the courtyard. He cut an inscription on the base of the pedestal, declaring the figure to be a Venus carved by Caesar's soldiers.

The count and his chateau are both gone, but the huge black woman, overgrown with moss, still stands in the forest, and the peasants still beseech her to bless their crops.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. See that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of night lights and yet let him have sunshine. Talk to him; talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread soaked in milk, lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of egg, sometimes a little fruit, a nut and lots of good things and let him eat or reject as he pleases.

Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little 10 cent looking glass will add greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

BLOODY FIGHT WITH WORKMEN

London, March 25.—The Daily Mail publishes the following, dated March 24, from a St. Petersburg correspondent:

Yesterday (Saturday) 500 workmen from the Obuchow Metal works paraded on the Nevskol prospect. On the way thither they demolished the state brandy booths. Eight hundred Cossacks, with drawn swords, met the workmen and a sanguinary encounter ensued. The number of killed and wounded is kept secret.

"The police have discovered a plot against the life of the czar. It appears that a group of students drew lots and that the fatal choice fell to the son of a prominent general. The student told his father, and the latter informed the czar, imploring him to leave St. Petersburg."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Express says:

"In the last encounter at Narva Gate 100 workmen are reported to have been killed or wounded by the Cossacks."

St. Petersburg, March 25.—Karpovich, the assassin of M. Bogoliefoff, Russian minister of public instruction, was sentenced to hard labor for life. He will be imprisoned in the Schneessburg fortress, on an island in the Neva.

AROUSED MRS. NATION.

Police Officers Accompanied Her at Leavenworth, Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived here last evening from Leavenworth and left for St. Louis en route for Cincinnati, where she is booked to deliver half a dozen lectures. It was believed she would make an attempt at joint smashing in Leavenworth, but two policemen remained with her all the time she was in that city. She wanted to make a speech in the Leavenworth opera house, but this was locked against her. She then attempted to speak on the public square, but officers stopped her. Later she went to the southern part of the city and addressed an audience of about 500 persons on a vacant lot. She visited the National Soldiers' home at Fort Leavenworth and began abusing Governor Rowland for allowing a canteen to be run on the grounds. After listening to her a short time the governor called a captain of police and had her escorted off the grounds and placed on a car for the city. Along the route from Leavenworth to Kansas City she made near platform speeches at different stops.

New York, March 25.—The Journal of Commerce today was expected to say in part:

The new can consolidation will go into practical operation today (Monday), the work of taking over and paying for the constituent properties having been completed on Saturday. The various plants will from now on be operated by the American Can company.

As already stated, it is probable that Edwin Norton will be president of the new company and that W. H. and J. H. Moore will be members of the board of directors. It is further said that the American Tinplate company will have representatives on the new board.

GOOD ADVICE BY PRIEST.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 25.—Rev. J. J. Curran, pastor of Holy Savior Catholic church, this city, the membership of which is made up principally of miners, told his congregation that a miners' strike at this time would be inopportune; that the men had not yet recovered from the last strike, and to quit work now would bring untold misery to many families.

Double Tragedy at Pine Ridge.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 25.—The federal authorities here have been notified of a double tragedy on the Pine Ridge Indian reservation. Louis Cottier, a Sioux of mixed blood, was shot and killed at his ranch, on Spring creek, by William Day, a full-blood, Indian policeman sent from Pine Ridge agency surrounded Day, who shot and killed himself rather than submit to arrest. The motive for the killing of Cottier is unknown.

BLOCKED BY ODELL

Platt Said His Declaration to Veto Prevents Further Police Legislation in New York.

New York, March 25.—Last evening Senator Platt gave out the following statement:

The general opinion of those at the conference was that the police conditions existing in New York ought to have the attention of the legislature, but that it would be useless to pass any bill, as the governor has declared that he would veto it. Some of those present favored a state police law, and others favored a metropolitan district, but it was conceded by all that nothing should be done at present.

"I regret the situation, as I believe that some action by the legislature is important for the city and the Republican party, and I think that such will be the general public opinion soon. But if nothing is to be done, and if the present bad conditions are to be submitted to, the legislature is not responsible for that."

"If it turns out in the next municipal election that the judgment which I have formed upon this subject has been wrong, then I shall be glad that Tammany has been left in control of the police."

AGREED TO ODELL'S VIEWS.

Decided to Attempt No More Police Legislation, at Least Now.

New York, March 25.—The committee of fifteen sent a letter to Governor Odell, warmly endorsing the recommendation of the tenement house commission in regard to the driving out of vice from the tenement houses. The committee has devoted considerable time to this question, which was one of the things which called it into the field, and it is expected the full committee will go to Albany on Tuesday, when a hearing on the report of the tenement house commission will be held before the city's committee of the legislature. The letter reads in part as follows:

"The greatest of existing evils is the intrusion and wide extension of prostitution in tenement houses, the houses in which the great mass of wage earners are compelled to live. There will probably for a long time to come continue to be differences of opinion as to the degree in which it is possible to check social vice in our great cities, but there can be no two opinions as to the necessity of protecting children of tender years from close contact with depravity. An intimate acquaintance with adult vice should, at least, not be forced upon young children by permitting such vice to penetrate into the very houses in which they live. The cry of parents when they ask merely for the opportunity of bringing up their children in an atmosphere free from the pollution of the most degrading forms of moral evil, should surely be heeded."

The letter says that the law at present on the statute books has not met the situation and what is needed is a law that will place the responsibility for the existence of vice in the tenements on the shoulders of the landlords. This, the committee says, the legislation proposed by the tenement house commission will do.

THE WINNING TICKET.

The primaries are over and the Republican district and county ticket is in the field, and any and all Republicans can and will give their hearty support. While there is naturally some disappointment here and there over the defeat of some candidate, such disappointment is inevitable in any campaign. The primaries have settled the local contests for positions; that is what primaries are for. The whole ticket deserves and will receive the vote of the Republican party of Columbiana county. The majority rules, and the majority has made the nominations.

Personally, no objection can be raised to any nominee. All are true and earnest Republicans; all are men of character, standing and ability; all will make faithful public servants. The fact that, for some of the principal positions, those now holding them were renominated without opposition, shows how satisfactorily their public duties have been performed. For the other places, as we have stated before, there was not a weak or unknown candidate in the field. Good men have been selected for all the offices to be filled; they will be elected, and we have no doubt their official record will be creditable to themselves and to Columbiana county. It is a ticket that deserves and will receive a rousing Republican majority next fall.

HERBERT'S DEFEAT.

A large majority of the people of East Liverpool and of the southern half of the county wanted Sherman T. Herbert nominated for county treasurer. They have only themselves to blame that he was not nominated. The stay-at-home voters defeated him. Had he received the 700 or 800 Republican votes in this city, to which he was entitled and a majority of which would have doubtless been his had all Republicans gone to the polls, he would have been nominated with many votes to spare. Instead he was turned down, and the office goes to a section of the county which has already captured a large number of official prizes.

We are not carping or criticising. The result of the primaries we cheerfully accept as final. But we desire to show East Liverpool what might have been, in the hope that the lesson may be of use in the future. Mr. Thompson, the nominee, is an able and experienced business man, who, as county treasurer, will look after the interests of the people as well as any man who ever held the office in the county. We have every confidence in him, and now that he is nominated, urge every Republican to vote for him. Mr. Herbert is a man of equal capabilities and of the same strong, manly qualities. Had he not been wounded in the house of his friends the office would have been his. How long will it take the voters to learn that the real issues of a campaign are decided at the primaries, and that the party man who does not turn out and vote at that time is not doing his full duty as a citizen and as a Republican?

PRIVATE DALZELL'S AMBITION.

Private Dalzell, once of Ohio, but of recent years of Washington city, is a candidate for appointment as justice of the peace for the District of Columbia, under the new code for the district, adopted in the closing hours of congress. He was for years a unique figure in Ohio politics. Since his removal to Washington he has been practicing law, and some years ago was admitted to practice before the supreme court. The private has served in the Ohio legislature and is honored by those who know him most intimately. He is an extremist in some of his views and somewhat erratic in other respects, but he is a bright, brainy man, whose thinking apparatus and his pen are always in working order. He has been one of the best friends of the veteran soldiers and has spent his time, labor and money freely in their behalf.

It would rejoice his numerous friends in Ohio, as well as in the G. A. R. throughout the union, to see him succeed in his ambition and become comfortably settled in a berth where he could spend his declining days in comfort, for Fortune has dealt rather harshly with him in recent years.

The News Review issued no fake extras on the primaries, and printed nothing until the actual results were known. Then it issued a paper, giving the facts as they stand today. The statements made in our 11 p. m. edition of Saturday stood confirmed this morning. The edition was in great demand and all the papers printed were speedily sold. The people are learning where they must go to get the news, without fake trimmings or patent medicine cut adornments.

The Crisis, in an extra Saturday evening, announced the names of the winners at the primaries. There were four places being contested for, and that enterprising journal named the successful candidates early in the evening. Its guess was correct, with three exceptions, which is not bad for that journal, though almost any person at all familiar with the political situation could have made a better guess even before the polls opened.

It is no use repining over what might have been. That is the way East Liverpool feels today. Hurrah for the whole ticket!

Fremont's Ride.

A pretty story is told of how John C. Fremont informed his wife of the joyful news of his election as senator of California in 1850. The balloting of the delegates took place in San Jose, and Mrs. Fremont was at Monterey, and as a season of heavy rains was on there was but little prospect that her keen desire to know the result would find immediate gratification. Before a blazing fire that night sat Fremont's wife, her fingers for the first time fashioning a dress for herself on the trustworthily outlines of one that had been ripped up for the purpose. Her little daughter had been put to bed, and her companions for the evening were the Australian woman who had replaced her two Indian servants and her baby playing on the bearskin rug near the fire.

Besides the voice of the woman and an occasional chirrup from the baby she heard nothing but the storm without till the door opened and a man, dripping with rain, stood on the threshold and asked in consideration of his sorry plight if he might enter. It was Fremont. He had torn himself away from his idolizing followers and ridden out into the darkness and storm to tell his wife, 70 miles away, that he had been elected to the United States senate. Though it was late in the night when he reached Monterey, he was in the saddle again before dawn and on his way back to San Jose, making in all a ride of 140 miles.—Argonaut.

The Red Flag.

The red button and the red flag have been the emblem of labor and revolution for more than 3,000 years. In the ancient world the favorite colors of the aristocracy were white and azure blue, while red was plebeian. Minerva and Ceres, the goddesses of labor and agriculture, were always represented as dressed in flaming red, and the banners of the Greek and Roman trade unions were of the same color. The red flag nowhere in antiquity meant ferocity and slaughter, but rather typified the fact that all men, whether slaves or masters, had in their veins the same blood and in their nature the same humanity.

But in the frequent servile wars of Italy and Greece the red flag gradually became the emblem not of labor, but of revolt. At one time when the rebellious slaves and gladiators under Spartacus defeated three Roman armies the red flag was on the point of supplanting the eagle in the imperial city itself. It is related that the labor soldiers were so fanatically devoted to their flag that it was the custom of their generals when in battle to hurl it far into the enemy's ranks and so compel its devotees to rush forward and recover it.—New York Post.

PLEASE NOTE

The publishers of the News Review are striving to improve their system of distribution of papers to subscribers and hope to have all ground for complaint removed in a short time. Failure to receive papers should be reported, first to the carrier, and then, if not remedied, to the business office of the News Review. While the carriers and agents, and not we, are responsible for the delivery of papers, we desire and aim to have the wishes of all subscribers promptly looked after.

The system adopted, as it is perhaps new to some of our readers, may require carriers. It sells the papers to agents who either distribute them themselves or employ boys to do so. Just as soon as a subscription is received at this office, the subscriber's name and address is turned over to the carrier on that route. The carrier is required to deliver the paper and also to collect the money for it. We desire to have it distinctly understood that the agents and carriers are in business for themselves, rather than for us, and while we help them all we can, and intend that their work shall be done in the most satisfactory manner, they are in no sense of the word our employees.

Order the paper at this office or from any carrier or agent, and pay the carrier for it. If the service is not satisfactory after a fair trial, let us know and we will do our best to make it so.

A Bad Judge.

Some years ago King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was a guest at a country house in England, and, picking up a sporting paper in the billiard room one morning, was soon deep in its contents. A clergyman, also a guest, noticed this, and, sidling up, asked in a tone that was meant to carry reproof, "Is your royal highness really interested in that paper?"

The prince glanced around. "I never read anything I do not feel interested in," he remarked.

The clergyman, though, would not be denied. "Do you know, your royal highness, that one of my friends has lost hundreds of pounds by betting on horse racing and has never won anything?" he asked.

"Well," said the prince as he turned to another column, "he must have been a very bad judge of horsetflesh."

THE WINNING TICKET.

The primaries are over and the Republican district and county ticket is in the field, and any and all Republicans can and will give it their hearty support. While there is naturally some disappointment here and there over the defeat of some candidate, such disappointment is inevitable in any campaign. The primaries have settled the local contests for positions; that is what primaries are for. The whole ticket deserves and will receive the vote of the Republican party of Columbiana county. The majority rules, and the majority has made the nominations.

Personally, no objection can be raised to any nominee. All are true and earnest Republicans; all are men of character, standing and ability; all will make faithful public servants. The fact that, for some of the principal positions, those now holding them were renominated without opposition, shows how satisfactorily their public duties have been performed. For the other places, as we have stated before, there was not a weak or unknown candidate in the field. Good men have been selected for all the offices to be filled; they will be elected, and we have no doubt their official record will be creditable to themselves and to Columbiana county. It is a ticket that deserves and will receive a rousing Republican majority next fall.

HERBERT'S DEFEAT.

A large majority of the people of East Liverpool and of the southern half of the county wanted Sherman T. Herbert nominated for county treasurer. They have only themselves to blame that he was not nominated. The stay-at-home voters defeated him. Had he received the 700 or 800 Republican votes in this city, to which he was entitled and a majority of which would have doubtless been his had all Republicans gone to the polls, he would have been nominated with many votes to spare. Instead he was turned down, and the office goes to a section of the county which has already captured a large number of official prizes.

We are not carping or criticising. The result of the primaries we cheerfully accept as final. But we desire to show East Liverpool what might have been, in the hope that the lesson may be of use in the future. Mr. Thompson, the nominee, is an able and experienced business man, who, as county treasurer, will look after the interests of the people as well as any man who ever held the office in the county. We have every confidence in him, and, now that he is nominated, urge every Republican to vote for him. Mr. Herbert is a man of equal capabilities and of the same strong, manly qualities. Had he not been wounded in the house of his friends the office would have been his. How long will it take the voters to learn that the real issues of a campaign are decided at the primaries, and that the party man who does not turn out and vote at that time is not doing his full duty as a citizen and as a Republican?

M'CORD'S PROTEST.

HE ONLY OBJECTED TO HAVING THE BALLOTS DESTROYED.

In an interview he States the Grounds of His Contention.

During the count of the votes in several of the precincts Saturday evening, representatives of William B. McCord entered informal protest against the destruction of the ballots after the count had been completed. In a majority of cases, however, the ballots were destroyed in accordance with the instructions of the city central committee.

Mr. McCord was seen today and asked whether the protest would be carried to the meeting of the county central committee Tuesday. He replied:

"No. I will not enter any formal protest, but simply ask, on behalf of the mass of Republican voters throughout the county, for the privilege of filing an exception to the method of dictation on the part of the county and precinct central committees, which has the effect of preventing a free and fair expression of their views at the polls. The protest, informal as it is, is not so much against the action of the county central committee a few weeks ago, as against what I believe to be a partial misconstruction of that action. For, while the committee practically declared that Mr. Buell was to have no opposition for a second term, and that with the at least implied consent of the other candidates for representative, yet that action should not have been allowed to cause a clear disregard of the will of the voter in the casting of a legal ballot. My points of objection to the manner of counting the votes Saturday are these: Many votes were counted for Buell which were not cast for him according to the manifest intent of the voters; and many votes, cast for the two candidates other than Mr. Buell, were disregarded so far as those two was concerned, but counted for Buell, in direct opposition to the clearly expressed intent of the voters. "My contention is that the ballots should have been counted exactly as they were cast by the voters, where not in violation of the election laws of the state."

TEACHING A YOUNG LARK.

How Its Mother Coaches It to Hop About and Fly.

J. M. Barrie, the noted Scottish story writer, in Scribner's Magazine told how a young lark got its first lesson. A baby lark had got out of its nest sideways, a fall of a foot only, but a dreadful drop for a baby.

"You can get back this way," its mother said, and showed it the way. But when the baby tried to leap it fell on its back. Then the mother marked out lines on the ground on which it was to practice hopping, and it got along beautifully so long as the mother was there every moment to say, "How wonderfully you hop!"

"Now teach me to hop up," said the little lark, meaning that it wanted to fly, and the mother tried to do it in vain. She could soar up, up, very bravely, but she could not explain how she did it.

"Wait till the sun comes out after the rain," she said, half remembering. "What is sun? What is rain?" the little bird asked. "If you cannot teach me to fly, teach me to sing."

"When the sun comes out after rain," the mother replied, "then you will know how to sing."

The rain came and glued the little bird's wings together.

"I shall never be able to fly or sing," it wailed.

Then of a sudden it began to blink its eyes, for a glorious light had spread over the world, catching every leaf and twig and blade of grass in tears and putting a smile in every tear. The baby bird's breast swelled, it did not know why; it fluttered from the ground, it did not know why.

"The sun has come out after the rain!" it trilled. "Thank you, sun! Thank you! Thank you! Oh, mother, did you hear me? I can sing."

Then it floated up, up, calling, "Thank you, thank you, thank you!" to the sun. "Oh, mother, do you see me? I am flying!"

A Good Memory.

A bad memory in most cases might be more properly described as one rusting from sheer want of use. The fact is our brain cells are always "ready to oblige," but we do not give them sufficient encouragement in their well meant efforts. Naturally the individual may cultivate a memory for certain details more readily than for others, but the general basis of all recollective acts is the same, and there is no department of human mental activity in which the motto that "practice makes perfect" holds more truly than in the science of mnemonics. The view may be expressed, indeed, that we never forget anything presented to our brain cells. When we say we have forgotten, we really mean that we cannot find the mental photographic negative whence we can print off a positive reproduction.—London Chronicle.

Gross Ingratitude.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton used to tell the story of a band of good women who furnished the means for educating a poor young man for the ministry, who rewarded their kindness and self sacrifice by preaching his first sermon from the text, "Let your women keep silence in the churches."

Somewhat similar was the experience of Editor Cadby of the Whangville Patriot. He tells it in this wise:

"I gave that boy of mine a college education. I had to economize, but I did it. Through my acquaintance with a friend in the big city I got him a job on a first class city newspaper. I could have made good use of him in my own office, but I wanted to do better for him than that. How do you suppose he repaid me? The first thing he did after he got his chair warm in his new job, by George, was to write a two column burlesque on country printing offices!"

Early Silk Weavers.

Among the encouragements offered to silk weavers during the first century of the existence of this industry in Lyons was exemption from military service and taxation. So rapid was its development that in 1650 the weavers numbered 18,000, or 60,000 with affiliated pursuits.

It is said that posts planted in the earth upper end down will last longer than those which are set in the natural position in which the tree grew.

ERMINES IN JERSEY.

Precious Arctic Fur Bearer Away Out of Its Latitude.

Hezekiah Apgar, a farmer of Lamington, N. J., says the ermine, which yields the fur of royalty, is abundant in his neighborhood. Probably in no other part of the world in similar latitude has the genuine animal been found, and Apgar's assertion is debated by the farmers around. Some laugh at him and declare that he has seen nothing but the common weasel. But Apgar says he has had too much experience in weasels to be mistaken.

Apgar says his farm is fairly overrun with the little animals. They were first seen about Christmas time, when Jed Van Derhoof, returning from shooting near Rattlesnake bridge, declared that he had tried a shot at some white weasels, but failed to hit the wary animals. His story was doubted by the village sportsmen, but his reputation was saved three weeks ago when Deacon Apgar declared at Hockinsbury's vendue that he was "sorely vexed by a lot of varmints that looked like white weasels, only th'are a leetle bigger." Several others at the vendue also said they had been bothered by the "white weasels," and although they had tried their best to kill one they had not been able to do so.

Young Van Derhoof watched about Deacon Apgar's barn for several nights before he was able to shoot one of the white "weasels." The trophy was taken to White House. Leslie Hoffman, a naturalist, declared the dead animal to be the genuine ermine or stoat. He had some doubts at first, as the ermine has never been known to exist in this climate, and he was inclined to think that it was of the species of weasel that changes color in the winter, but he said he was sure of his final decision because of the jet black tip of the tail and also by the size of the body.

The animal is about 12 inches long, three inches high and has a bushy tail, the end of which is dead black. The eyes are round, not oval; the snout long and the jaws thin. The fur is almost snow white. The common weasel is smaller in every way and has a tail much less bushy. Its color is a reddish brown. The ermine comes from arctic climes, and it is declared by naturalists that it cannot live in any but extremely cold climates.

Tried to Raise the Dead.

A remarkable attempt was made in Denmark recently to bring back to life a man who had died in a hospital. The experiment was measurably successful, as resuscitation was effected several hours after the man was pronounced dead. Dr. Maag, who was in charge, was unable to maintain life, however.

The patient had died from typhoid fever, and Dr. Maag decided to try an experiment. Respiration had ceased completely and the body was cold. Direct massage of the heart was resorted to. The chest was cut open directly over the heart, and through the incision the physician passed his hand and seized the heart. He commenced a series of compressions, and in a short time the heart commenced to work of its own accord. The action of the heart gradually became stronger, but the man had not commenced to breathe. Only after the heart had been acting half an hour did the first gasp for air come.

The patient was then assisted in this for about an hour until finally he was able to breathe quite freely. At the same time his cheeks began to assume a natural color. He lay in this condition another half hour, but without regaining consciousness or appearing to feel the effects of the incision. Then there was a reaction and respiration ceased, although the heart continued to act eight hours longer. A second effort was made to induce heart action, but without result.

Kipling and the Bus Owner.

After leaving Vermont Rudyard Kipling bought a place in the little English village of Rottingdean, and in his garden were some beautiful trees. One of these trees, branching over the road, threatened daily injury to the driver of the local bus. Therefore he and his conductor waged destructive war on all the vulnerable twigs within reach from the bus roof. Result: A vigorous letter of complaint from Mr. Kipling to the bus owner, who is also landlord of one of the local inns.

That evening the landlord laid the letter before the select company of the bar parlor. They advised an attitude of calm indifference. Also a Cressus among them offered $2.50 in cash for the autograph letter. Both advice and cash were accepted.

The nuisance continuing, in due course a second and stronger letter followed the first. The landlord convened another bar parliament, and the second letter also found a buyer, this time at $5, as befitted its increased violence. And Boniface again "sat tight." To him next day entered Mr. Kipling, briskly wrathful. "Why didn't I answer your letters, sir? Why, I was hoping you'd send me a fresh one every day. They pay a deal better than bus driving!"

The Matter of a Semicolon.

A Russian military paper tells of a lieutenant who overheard a sergeant giving a recruit a short lecture upon his duties. "The military service," said the sergeant, "requires little prayer to God and a strict attention to the orders of a superior." Somewhat astonished at this singular definition of military duty, the officer ventured to ask the sergeant for his authority, whereupon the sergeant produced an ancient volume containing the following: "The military duty requires little; prayer to God, and strict attention to the orders of a superior."—Army and Navy Journal.

M'CORD'S PROTEST.

HE ONLY OBJECTED TO HAVING THE BALLOTS DESTROYED.

In an interview he States the Grounds of His Contention.

During the count of the votes in several of the precincts Saturday evening, representatives of William B. McCord entered informal protest against the destruction of the ballots after the count had been completed. In a majority of cases, however, the ballots were destroyed in accordance with the instructions of the city central committee.

Mr. McCord was seen today and asked whether the protest would be carried to the meeting of the county central committee Tuesday. He replied:

"No, I will not enter any formal protest, but simply ask, on behalf of the mass of Republican voters throughout the county, for the privilege of filing an exception to the method of dictation on the part of the county and precinct central committees, which has the effect of preventing a free and fair expression of their views at the polls. The protest, informal as it is, is not so much against the action of the county central committee a few weeks ago, as against what I believe to be a partial misconstruction of that action. For, while the committee practically declared that Mr. Buell was to have no opposition for a second term, and that with the at least implied consent of the other candidates for representative, yet that action should not have been allowed to cause a clear disregard of the will of the voter in the casting of a legal ballot. My points of objection to the manner of counting the votes Saturday are these: Many votes were counted for Buell which were not cast for him according to the manifest intent of the voters; and many votes, cast for the two candidates other than Mr. Buell, were disregarded so far as those two was concerned, but counted for Buell, in direct opposition to the clearly expressed intent of the voters.

"My contention is that the ballots should have been counted exactly as they were cast by the voters, where not in violation of the election laws of the state."

TEACHING A YOUNG LARK.

How Its Mother Coaches It to Hop About and Fly.

J. M. Barrie, the noted Scottish story writer, in Scribner's Magazine told how a young lark got its first lesson. A baby lark had got out of its nest sideways, a fall of a foot only, but a dreadful drop for a baby.

"You can get back this way," its mother said, and showed it the way. But when the baby tried to leap it fell on its back. Then the mother marked out lines on the ground on which it was to practice hopping, and it got along beautifully so long as the mother was there every moment to say, "How wonderfully you hop!"

"Now teach me to hop up," said the little lark, meaning that it wanted to fly, and the mother tried to do it in vain. She could soar up, up, very bravely, but she could not explain how she did it.

"Wait till the sun comes out after the rain," she said, half remembering. "What is sun? What is rain?" the little bird asked. "If you cannot teach me to fly, teach me to sing."

"When the sun comes out after rain," the mother replied, "then you will know how to sing."

The rain came and glued the little bird's wings together.

"I shall never be able to fly or sing," it wailed.

Then of a sudden it began to blink its eyes, for a glorious light had spread over the world, catching every leaf and twig and blade of grass in tears and putting a smile in every tear. The baby bird's breast swelled, it did not know why; it fluttered from the ground, it did not know why.

"The sun has come out after the rain!" it trilled. "Thank you, sun! Thank you! Thank you! Oh, mother, did you hear me? I can sing."

Then it floated up, up, calling, "Thank you, thank you, thank you!" to the sun. "Oh, mother, do you see me? I am flying!"

A Good Memory.

A bad memory in most cases might be more properly described as one rusting from sheer want of use. The fact is our brain cells are always "ready to oblige," but we do not give them sufficient encouragement in their well meant efforts. Naturally the individual may cultivate a memory for certain details more readily than for others, but the general basis of all recollective acts is the same, and there is no department of human mental activity in which the motto that "practice makes perfect" holds more truly than in the science of mnemonics. The view may be expressed, indeed, that we never forget anything presented to our brain cells. When we say we have forgotten, we really mean that we cannot find the mental photographic negative whence we can print off a positive reproduction.—London Chronicle.

Gross Ingratitude.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton used to tell the story of a band of good women who furnished the means for educating a poor young man for the ministry, who rewarded their kindness and self sacrifice by preaching his first sermon from the text, "Let your women keep silence in the churches."

Somewhat similar was the experience of Editor Cadby of the Whangville Patriot. He tells it in this wise:

"I gave that boy of mine a college education. I had to economize, but I did it. Through my acquaintance with a friend in the big city I got him a job on a first class city newspaper. I could have made good use of him in my own office, but I wanted to do better for him than that. How do you suppose he repaid me? The first thing he did after he got his chair warm in his new job, by George, was to write a two column burlesque on country printing offices!"

Early Silk Weavers.

Among the encouragements offered to silk weavers during the first century of the existence of this industry in Lyons was exemption from military service and taxation. So rapid was its development that in 1650 the weavers numbered 18,000, or 60,000 with affiliated pursuits.

It is said that posts planted in the earth upper end down will last longer than those which are set in the natural position in which the tree grew.

ERMINE IN JERSEY.

Precious Arctic Fur Bearer Away Out of Its Latitude.

Hezekiah Apgar, a farmer of Lamington, N. J., says the ermine, which yields the fur of royalty, is abundant in his neighborhood. Probably in no other part of the world in similar latitude has the genuine animal been found, and Apgar's assertion is debated by the farmers around. Some laugh at him and declare that he has seen nothing but the common weasel. But Apgar says he has had too much experience in weasels to be mistaken.

Apgar says his farm is fairly overrun with the little animals. They were first seen about Christmas time, when Jed Van Derhoof, returning from shooting near Rattlesnake bridge, declared that he had tried a shot at some white weasels, but failed to hit the wary animals. His story was doubted by the village sportsmen, but his reputation was saved three weeks ago when Deacon Apgar declared at Hockinbury's vendue that he was "sorely vexed by a lot of varmints that looked like white weasels, only th'are a leetle bigger." Several others at the vendue also said they had been bothered by the "white weasels," and although they had tried their best to kill one they had not been able to do so.

Young Van Derhoof watched about Deacon Apgar's barn for several nights before he was able to shoot one of the white "weasels." The trophy was taken to White House, Leslie Hoffman, a naturalist, declared the dead animal to be the genuine ermine or stoat. He had some doubts at first, as the ermine has never been known to exist in this climate, and he was inclined to think that it was of the species of weasel that changes color in the winter, but he said he was sure of his final decision because of the jet black tip of the tail and also by the size of the body.

The animal is about 12 inches long, three inches high and has a bushy tail, the end of which is dead black. The eyes are round, not oval; the snout long and the jaws thin. The fur is almost snow white. The common weasel is smaller in every way and has a tail much less bushy. Its color is a reddish brown. The ermine comes from arctic climes, and it is declared by naturalists that it cannot live in any but extremely cold climates.

Tried to Raise the Dead.

A remarkable attempt was made in Denmark recently to bring back to life a man who had died in a hospital. The experiment was measurably successful, as resuscitation was effected several hours after the man was pronounced dead. Dr. Maag, who was in charge, was unable to maintain life, however.

The patient had died from typhoid fever, and Dr. Maag decided to try an experiment. Respiration had ceased completely and the body was cold. Direct massage of the heart was resorted to. The chest was cut open directly over the heart, and through the incision the physician passed his hand and seized the heart. He commenced a series of compressions, and in a short time the heart commenced to work of its own accord. The action of the heart gradually became stronger, but the man had not commenced to breathe. Only after the heart had been acting half an hour did the first gasp for air come.

The patient was then assisted in this for about an hour until finally he was able to breathe quite freely. At the same time his cheeks began to assume a natural color. He lay in this condition another half hour, but without regaining consciousness or appearing to feel the effects of the incision. Then there was a reaction and respiration ceased, although the heart continued to act eight hours longer. A second effort was made to induce heart action, but without result.

Kipling and the Bus Owner.

After leaving Vermont Rudyard Kipling bought a place in the little English village of Rottingdean, and in his garden were some beautiful trees. One of these trees, branching over the road, threatened daily injury to the driver of the local bus. Therefore he and his conductor waged destructive war on all the vulnerable twigs within reach from the bus roof. Result: A vigorous letter of complaint from Mr. Kipling to the bus owner, who is also landlord of one of the local inns.

That evening the landlord laid the letter before the select company of the bar parlor. They advised an attitude of calm indifference. Also a Cæsus among them offered $2.50 in cash for the autograph letter. Both advice and cash were accepted.

The nuisance continuing, in due course a second and stronger letter followed the first. The landlord convened another bar parliament, and the second letter also found a buyer, this time at $5, as befitting its increased violence. And Boniface again "sat tight." To him next day entered Mr. Kipling, briskly wrathful. "Why didn't I answer your letters, sir? Why, I was hoping you'd send me a fresh one every day. They pay a deal better than bus driving!"

The Matter of a Semicolon.

A Russian military paper tells of a lieutenant who overheard a sergeant giving a recruit a short lecture upon his duties. "The military service," said the sergeant, "requires little prayer to God and a strict attention to the orders of a superior." Somewhat astonished at this singular definition of military duty, the officer ventured to ask the sergeant for his authority, whereupon the sergeant produced an ancient volume containing the following: "The military duty requires little; prayer to God, and strict attention to the orders of a superior."—Army and Navy Journal.

OPINION IS CHANGING

Cubans Now Considered Likely to Agree to the Platt Amendment.

RADICALS SEEK AN EXCUSE

Want Only a Little Concession, on Which to Recede—Convention May Become United on Commercial Interests' Demands.

Havana, March 25.—The action of the Republican party in Santiago in endorsing the Platt amendment and instructing Senors Gomez and Ferrer, of the Santiago delegation to the constitutional convention, to vote for the amendment, together with the letters of General Sanguilly and the mayor of Cienfuegos, advising acceptance, were incidents of last week, and tended to clear up the political atmosphere, until now there are few who do not expect the convention to approve the amendment.

The visit of American senators and congressmen had an excellent effect, as in no instance have the radicals received any encouragement in the notion that if action is delayed until the next congress there might be a change in the demands of the United States.

The radicals, however, insist that they cannot recede from their former position without loss of dignity, and they still hope that some concession, no matter how insignificant, may provide a sufficient excuse.

Already the radicals are taking their cue from the conservatives and pointing out that commercial interests demand recognition. There is a possibility of uniting the convention along this line. The platform of the conservatives calls for a reduction of American import duties on tobacco and sugar and approves any scheme of relations which the United States government sees fit to impose.

In fact, the situation is leading to a point where commercial interests will be the chief question under discussion at the next session of the convention, and it is not unlikely that a resolution will be adopted asking for a reciprocity treaty.

MUTILATED HERSELF.

Woman Used Scissors, While Probably Temporarily Insane.

Toledo, O., March 25.—Mrs. G. Brunshneider, residing near the city limits, occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital and is in a serious condition as the result of horrible injuries self-inflicted.

Armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all toes of her left foot, both her ears close to the head, and about an inch of her nose. She then cut out a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in the left cheek, and finally began on her arms. Beginning at her left forearm, she removed every vestige of skin, laying bare the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home in the morning and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition. A surgeon was called at once and she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Sat Alone in a Chair a Charred and Blackened Corpse.

Pittsburg, March 25.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Port Perry some time Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Riling, a widow, aged 76, was found suffocated to death in her home there. She lived by herself in a four-roomed house, although a son, Daniel Riling, lived in the house.

In the room in which she slept flames had entirely destroyed the bed and chairs, but no trace of Mrs. Riling could be found.

In the kitchen she was found apparently asleep in a big rocking chair. Upon examination it was found she was dead and horribly burned. Deputy Coroner Huchel was summoned and held an inquest. It developed that Mrs. Riling kept a coal fire burning in her bed room. It is surmised that a live coal falling onto the carpet set fire to it. When discovered by the woman, it had evidently gained much headway and before she could escape from the room her night robes caught fire.

Mrs. Riling was rather feeble and it is thought she was overcome by the dense smoke and swooned in the chair in the kitchen while trying to reach the rear door.

Americans Congratulated Diaz.

Mexico City, March 25.—The members of the American embassy staff, headed by Charge d'Affaires Fenton McReery, called on President Diaz, at the national palace and congratulated him on his restoration to his usual health. The president was in excellent spirits and much gratified at this manifestation of good will.

BURNING OIL FLOWED.

POURED DOWN INTO A NEW JERSEY VILLAGE.

11 Buildings and Other Property Destroyed—Railway Tracks Damaged—Peculiar Accident.

New York, March 25.—A river of flaming oil swept down upon the little village of Glengardner, N. J., while its inhabitants were asleep and reduced 11 buildings, stores and residences to ashes.

The village is in a valley, along the line of the Jersey Central railroad.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The The engineer on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sidewise across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in out-buildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

Threats Against Players.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

The following towboats passed this city Saturday and yesterday: Down—William G. Horner, Jim Wood. Up—Charles Hook, Ed Roberts.

OPINION IS CHANGING

Cubans Now Considered Likely to Agree to the Platt Amendment.

RADICALS SEEK AN EXCUSE

Want Only a Little Concession, on Which to Recede—Convention May Become United on Commercial Interests' Demands.

Havana, March 25.—The action of the Republican party in Santiago in endorsing the Platt amendment and instructing Senors Gomez and Ferrer, of the Santiago delegation to the constitutional convention, to vote for the amendment, together with the letters of General Sanguilly and the mayor of Cienfuegos, advising acceptance, were incidents of last week, and tended to clear up the political atmosphere, until now there are few who do not expect the convention to approve the amendment.

The visit of American senators and congressmen had an excellent effect, as in no instance have the radicals received any encouragement in the notion that if action is delayed until the next congress there might be a change in the demands of the United States.

The radicals, however, insist that they cannot recede from their former position without loss of dignity, and they still hope that some concession, no matter how insignificant, may provide a sufficient excuse.

Already the radicals are taking their cue from the conservatives and pointing out that commercial interests demand recognition. There is a possibility of uniting the convention along this line. The platform of the conservatives calls for a reduction of American import duties on tobacco and sugar and approves any scheme of relations which the United States government sees fit to impose.

In fact, the situation is leading to a point where commercial interests will be the chief question under discussion at the next session of the convention, and it is not unlikely that a resolution will be adopted asking for a reciprocity treaty.

MUTILATED HERSELF.

Woman Used Scissors, While Probably Temporarily Insane.

Toledo, O., March 25.—Mrs. G. Brunshneider, residing near the city limits, occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital and is in a serious condition as the result of horrible injuries self-inflicted.

Armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all toes of her left foot, both her ears close to the head, and about an inch of her nose. She then cut out a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in the left cheek, and finally began on her arms. Beginning at her left forearm, she removed every vestige of skin, laying bare the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home in the morning and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition. A surgeon was called at once and she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Sat Alone in a Chair a Charred and Blackened Corpse.

Pittsburg, March 25.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Port Perry some time Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Riling, a widow, aged 76, was found suffocated to death in her home there. She lived by herself in a four-roomed house, although a son, Daniel Riling, lived in the village.

In the room in which she slept flames had entirely destroyed the bed and chairs, but no trace of Mrs. Riling could be found.

In the kitchen she was found apparently asleep in a big rocking chair. Upon examination it was found she was dead and horribly burned. Deputy Coroner Huchel was summoned and held an inquest. It developed that Mrs. Riling kept a coal fire burning in her bed room. It is surmised that a live coal falling onto the carpet set fire to it. When discovered by the woman, it had evidently gained much headway and before she could escape from the room her night robes caught fire.

Mrs. Riling was rather feeble and it is thought she was overcome by the dense smoke and swooned in the chair in the kitchen while trying to reach the rear door.

Americans Congratulated Diaz.

Mexico City, March 25.—The members of the American embassy staff, headed by Charge d'Affaires Fenton McReery, called on President Diaz, at the national palace and congratulated him on his restoration to his usual health. The president was in excellent spirits and much gratified at this manifestation of good will.

BURNING OIL FLOWED.

POURED DOWN INTO A NEW JERSEY VILLAGE.

11 Buildings and Other Property Destroyed—Railway Tracks Damaged—Peculiar Accident.

New York, March 25.—A river of flaming oil swept down upon the little village of Glengardner, N. J., while its inhabitants were asleep and reduced 11 buildings, stores and residences to ashes.

The village is in a valley, along the line of the Jersey Central railroad.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The engine on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sideways across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in out-buildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

Threats Against Players.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

THE WEATHER.

The following towboats passed this city Saturday and yesterday: Down—William G. Horner, Jim Wood. Up—Charles Hook, Ed Roberts.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The The engineer on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sideways across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in out-buildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

The following towboats passed this city Saturday and yesterday: Down—William G. Horner, Jim Wood. Up—Charles Hook, Ed Roberts.

The Princess brought a tow of sand to this city yesterday afternoon and immediately returned to Pittsburg. The Kanawha had a very large passenger list, bringing about 69 passengers to this city.

The Situation Thought to Be Serious and War Officers Confer.

MOST JAPS AGAINST RUSSIA

Korean Government Dismissed an Englishman From Director Generalship of Customs—Great Britain Protests.

London, March 25.—“A Japanese squadron, Admiral Tsushima commanding, left Nagasaki Saturday for Korea,” says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. “The general opinion here is that the situation is serious. Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense.

“The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy.”

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pusan. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. Pavloff, Russian minister at Seoul, protested against Korea taking foreigners into the government service with the exception of Russians and demanded the appointment of the latter, but Korea seemed determined with the help of the powers, to defend her integrity.

JEW KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Average of One a Year and 12 Assaulted a Day.

Chicago, March 25.—Twelve men assaulted in Chicago each day for no other reason than that they are Jews, with the average of one death a year growing out of these assaults, were figures presented at an indignation meeting of Jewish peddlers. The police, the speakers declare, make little effort to protect members of their race from the attacks of hoodlums. In several instances, it was said, the police had looked on when such attacks were being made and failed to interfere.

After half a dozen speakers had spoken on the protest, the Chicago Protective league was organized to demand that the police protect the Jews. A committee was appointed to perfect the organization and arrange for a mass meeting next week for the purpose of arousing public interest in the movement.

RAIDS BY REFORMERS.

Number of Prisoners Let Out on Bail in New York.

New York, March 25.—Justice Jerome, of the court of special sessions, visited five police stations and admitted to bail 33 prisoners who were captured late Saturday night in several raids made by the committee of fifteen.

The proprietor and night clerk of the Hotel Virginia; Henry McGurk, alleged manager of the Brighton Music hall, otherwise known as “McGurk’s suicide hall,” with a singer and housekeeper of the same place, and a colored woman captured in the “Berlin,” were each held in $500 bail. The other prisoners, who included managers, barkeepers and other persons connected with the “Savoy,” “Royal Garden” and the “Pekin” were each held in $300 bail.

Accused of Murdering a Girl.

Middlebury, Vt., March 25.—Nelson Jones, about 25 years of age, of Shoreham, was lodged in jail on a warrant charging him with the murder of Miss Ida Fosburgh, at Shoreham, on March 12, by poisoning. The young woman was engaged to be married to Aldace Vondette, who was recently charged with having caused her death and who after being held a few days was released.

Accordably.

“She’s well educated, isn’t she?” “Well, she’s one of those women who can pass as being that way. When she meets any one who can speak French and not German, she can speak German, and when she meets any one who can speak German and not French she can speak French.”—Indianapolis Sun.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

ASTER is certainly the season for dainty gowns and soft laces. My lady casts aside her Lenten garments of black and purple, and arrays herself like the spring flowers in robes of the fairest tints. Over her masses of fluffy hair she tilts a hat covered with roses, which cast deep pink shadows on her cheeks. Her gown is pale and clinging, and her dimpled chin rests among the frills of a chiffon or lace boa, which accentuates her youth and grace. Truly the Easter girl is always fair, but this year she is fairer than ever. Never before have the fashions been so artistic and so well calculated to enhance the charms of a pretty woman. Take the very dress materials themselves, for instance; they are all soft and clinging. Veilings, crepe de chine, and grenadines are the fabrics for dressy gowns, and the ever popular foulard is relegated to the second place. As for the colors, they are a little brighter this season, but they still follow the pastel shades—mauve, cafe au lait, pearl, pale rose, pale blue and pale green. All shades of red and green are being much used by the fashionable dressmakers, and as the season advances they are more and more in evidence. Old rose is just as popular this spring as it was last winter, and nothing makes a prettier gown for a brunette than an old rose veiling trimmed with black chantilly lace. Speaking of veilings, many of them come beautifully embroidered in a lace pattern, and others come with a border of gold applique.

After a long exile chollies have come to the front once more. Last summer a few fashionable women had seashore gowns made of this material, and in every case they were admired. This year any number of people are having are many. In the first place, it is soft and silky, lending itself to tuckings and shirrings; secondly, it comes in all the delicate patterns and shadings of organdie, and, lastly, it will stand any amount of dampness and hard wear.

Foulards will always be used more or less by people who like to wear a silk gown. Most of the foulards this season come with a satin finish even more lustrous than last year. The more dressy ones are pale colored mauve, pearl gray or pale green. There is a new material called waterproof foulard, but this remains to be tested by actual wear. Many of the newest designs, both in chollies and foulards, are Persian, and, indeed, at a little distance they produce the effect of the pannes we have been wearing all winter.

The new muslins are dainty in the extreme. Pale blue is the favorite color and dotted muslin the leading material. These blue gowns are very pretty for young girls. They are made over soft silk slips of the same color and are trimmed with black and sometimes a touch of the palest yellow. The thin materials come hemstitched, embroidered or tucked with broad lace insertions. Fashion demands this year that all pretentious gowns shall be covered with fine needlework and that the trimmings shall be dainty instead of striking. Dashes of color are supplied by huge rosettes of contrasting color or bows of black velvet. Beadings through which tiny black velvet ribbons are run form a prominent feature of many gowns. Sashes are also all the style for those who can afford them. They come very wide and most beautifully tinted in Persian flower designs, so that they cost small fortunes. This is a ribbon season, and soft panne and glace ribbons are much used. These are crumpled into smart bows, and the latest thing is the mixture of several shades in one bow. However, they must be variations of the same color; for instance, the reds from coral to ox blood and the mauve orchid tints. Broad lace scarfs are also used for bows and sashes.

The new shirt waists do not differ greatly from those worn during the winter. They are not quite so plain, and the sleeves are made in the bishop style—full at the wrists. The principal novelty is in the collar. There is a growing tendency to softness, and many of the more expensive blouses have turndown collars of sheer batiste, hemstitched and tucked. A ribbon may or may not be worn beneath these, just as one’s fancy dictates. Dressy waists are being made of crepe de chine. These are very much tucked and trimmed with lace.

The blouse and the Eton jacket prevail for street suits. Plain tailor mades are only worn by a very few women. The Etons are made with postilion backs for stout women and are cut short and rather baggy for the slender and youthful. Little fancy coats of black panne and tucked satin are replacing the taffeta affairs of last season. These are invariably lined with cream or pearl gray satin, and they are meant to be worn with fluffy fronts and directoire jabots. As for the skirts, they are being made almost plain in the back for those who can stand that style. The thin materials, however, are full in the hips.

Never has the Easter hat been so pretty. This is a rose season, and the smartest creations are fairly loaded down with these flowers. As regards shapes the milliners have been kind to people with irregular features. There is no one set style, and the brims all curl softly to suit the different faces. The crowns are low, but not so flat as during the winter season. Chiffon is a favorite material, and when tucked and combined with lace it forms the dressiest of all headgear. Hats made entirely out of ribbon are a novelty, and marquisse hats of crepe are very pretty when made in pale blue pink or yellow and trimmed with big choux of black net. Large buckles of pearl and jet ornament the handsomer lace and tulle hats.

This is a season of small accessories, and the woman who wants to appear well dressed cannot afford to ignore this fact. The smart woman will provide herself with chiffon boas, lace collars, crinkled satin and velvet bows for the hair to match her different gowns and big choux of contrasting shades to wear with her light dresses. Marie Antoinette fichus are being worn more than ever and short lace boleros with long ends which tie. In choosing these little articles of dress it is only necessary to consider one’s individual style. There are designs for every one, and there is no excuse for the woman who looks prim or mannish this season.

Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense.

“The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy.”

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pusan. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. Pavloff, Russian minister at Seoul, protested against Korea taking foreigners into the government service with the exception of Russians and demanded the appointment of the latter, but Korea seemed determined with the help of the powers, to defend her integrity.

JEWS KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Average of One a Year and 12 Assaulted a Day.

Chicago, March 25.—Twelve men assaulted in Chicago each day for no other reason than that they are Jews, with the average of one death a year growing out of these assaults, were figures presented at an indignation meeting of Jewish peddlers. The police, the speakers declare, make little effort to protect members of their race from the attacks of hoodlums. In several instances, it was said, the police had looked on when such attacks were being made and failed to interfere.

After half a dozen speakers had spoken on the protest, the Chicago Protective league was organized to demand that the police protect the Jews. A committee was appointed to perfect the organization and arrange for a mass meeting next week for the purpose of arousing public interest in the movement.

RAIDS BY REFORMERS.

Number of Prisoners Let Out on Bail in New York.

New York, March 25.—Justice Jerome, of the court of special sessions, visited five police stations and admitted to bail 33 prisoners who were captured late Saturday night in several raids made by the committee of fifteen.

The proprietor and night clerk of the Hotel Virginia; Henry McGurk, alleged manager of the Brighton Music hall, otherwise known as “McGurk’s suicide hall,” with a singer and housekeeper of the same place, and a colored woman captured in the “Berlin,” were each held in $500 bail. The other prisoners, who included managers, barkeepers and other persons connected with the “Savoy,” “Royal Garden” and the “Pekin” were each held in $300 bail.

Accused of Murdering a Girl.

Middlebury, Vt., March 25.—Nelson Jones, about 25 years of age, of Shoreham, was lodged in jail on a warrant charging him with the murder of Miss Ida Fosburgh, at Shoreham, on March 12, by poisoning. The young woman was engaged to be married to Aldace Vondette, who was recently charged with having caused her death and who after being held a few days was released.

“She’s well educated, isn’t she?” “Well, she’s one of those women who can pass as being that way. When she meets any one who can speak French and not German, she can speak German, and when she meets any one who can speak German and not French she can speak French.”—Indianapolis Sun.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

ASTER is certainly the season for dainty gowns and soft laces. My lady casts aside her Lenten garments of black and purple, and arrays herself like the spring flowers in robes of the fairest tints. Over her masses of fluffy hair she tilts a hat covered with roses, which cast deep pink shadows on her cheeks. Her gown is pale and clinging, and her dimpled chin rests among the frills of a chiffon or lace boa, which accentuates her youth and grace. Truly the Easter girl is always fair, but this year she is fairer than ever. Never before have the fashions been so artistic and so well calculated to enhance the charms of a pretty woman. Take the very dress materials themselves, for instance; they are all soft and clinging. Veilings, crepe de chine, and grenadines are the fabrics for dressy gowns, and the ever popular foulard is relegated to the second place. As for the colors, they are a little brighter this season, but they still follow the pastel shades—mauve, cafe au lait, pearl, pale rose, pale blue and pale green. All shades of red and green are being much used by the fashionable dressmakers, and as the season advances they are more and more in evidence. Old rose is just as popular this spring as it was last winter, and nothing makes a prettier gown for a brunette than an old rose veiling trimmed with black chantilly lace. Speaking of veilings, many of them come beautifully embroidered in a lace pattern, and others come with a border of gold applique.

After a long exile chollies have come to the front once more. Last summer a few fashionable women had seashore gowns made of this material, and in every case they were admired. This year any number of people are having are many. In the first place, it is soft and silky, lending itself to tuckings and shirrings; secondly, it comes in all the delicate patterns and shadings of organdie, and, lastly, it will stand any amount of dampness and hard wear.

Foulards will always be used more or less by people who like to wear a silk gown. Most of the foulards this season come with a satin finish even more lustrous than last year. The more dressy ones are pale colored mauve, pearl gray or pale green. There is a new material called waterproof foulard, but this remains to be tested by actual wear. Many of the newest designs, both in challies and foulards, are Persian, and, indeed, at a little distance they produce the effect of the pannes we have been wearing all winter.

The new muslins are dainty in the extreme. Pale blue is the favorite color and dotted muslin the leading material. These blue gowns are very pretty for young girls. They are made over soft silk slips of the same color and are trimmed with black and sometimes a touch of the palest yellow. The thin materials come hemstitched, embroidered or tucked with broad lace insertions. Fashion demands this year that all pretentious gowns shall be covered with fine needlework and that the trimmings shall be dainty instead of striking. Dashes of color are supplied by huge rosettes of contrasting color or bows of black velvet. Beadings through which tiny black velvet ribbons are run form a prominent feature of many gowns. Sashes are also all the style for those who can afford them. They come very wide and most beautifully tinted in Persian flower designs, so that they cost small fortunes. This is a ribbon season, and soft panne and glace ribbons are much used. These are crumpled into smart bows, and the latest thing is the mixture of several shades in one bow. However, they must be variations of the same color; for instance, the reds from coral to ox blood and the mauve orchid tints. Broad lace scarfs are also used for bows and sashes.

The new shirt waists do not differ greatly from those worn during the winter. They are not quite so plain, and the sleeves are made in the bishop style—full at the wrists. The principal novelty is in the collar. There is a growing tendency to softness, and many of the more expensive blouses have turndown collars of sheer batiste, hemstitched and tucked. A ribbon may or may not be worn beneath these, just as one's fancy dictates. Dressy waists are being made of crepe de chine. These are very much tucked and trimmed with lace.

The blouse and the Eton jacket prevail for street suits. Plain tailor makes are only worn by a very few women. The Etons are made with postilion backs for stout women and are cut short and rather baggy for the slender and youthful. Little fancy coats of black panne and tucked satin are replacing the taffeta affairs of last season. These are invariably lined with cream or pearl gray satin, and they are meant to be worn with fluffy fronts and directoire jabots. As for the skirts, they are being made almost plain in the back for those who can stand that style. The thin materials, however, are full in the hips.

Never has the Easter hat been so pretty. This is a rose season, and the smartest creations are fairly loaded down with these flowers. As regards shapes the milliners have been kind to people with irregular features. There is no one set style, and the brims all curl softly to suit the different faces. The crowns are low, but not so flat as during the winter season. Chiffon is a favorite material, and when tucked and combined with lace it forms the dressiest of all headgear. Hats made entirely out of ribbon are a novelty, and marquis hats of crepe are very pretty when made in pale blue pink or yellow and trimmed with big choux of black net. Large buckles of pearl and jet ornament the handsomer lace and tulle hats.

This is a season of small accessories, and the woman who wants to appear well dressed cannot afford to ignore this fact. The smart woman will provide herself with chiffon boas, lace collars, crinkled satin and velvet bows for the hair to match her different gowns and big choux of contrasting shades to wear with her light dresses. Marie Antoinette fichus are being worn more than ever and short lace boleros with long ends which tie. In choosing these little articles of dress it is only necessary to consider one's individual style. There are designs for every one, and there is no excuse for the woman who looks prim or mannish this season.

The Situation Thought to Be Serious and War Officers Confer.

MOST JAPS AGAINST RUSSIA

Korean Government Dismissed an Englishman From Director Generalship of Customs—Great Britain Protests.

London, March 25.—"A Japanese squadron, Admiral Tsushima commanding, left Nagasaki Saturday for Korea," says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. "The general opinion here is that the situation is serious. Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense."

"The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy."

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pusan. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. S. L. Boston's Able Sermon on the Power of the Spirit.

Notwithstanding the absence of Rev. N. M. Crowe, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the meetings which were commenced a week ago are growing in interest. The talented musician, Mr. D. C. Montgomery, has been singing the gospel. Sunday morning he very touchingly sang "A Dream of Paradise." At the evening service he sang "The Holy City." Rev. S. L. Boston preached two fine sermons yesterday and will preach every evening during this week.

Mr. Boston's morning sermon was based on the text, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed." His plea was for those who already profess Christianity to practice more of its principles. The people of Ephesus, to whom this question was propounded, knew only the baptism of John, and had "not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." The speaker referred to the special stress laid by some Christians upon what they term the proper mode of baptism. Whatever may have been the manner or mode pursued by John or the words which he used, it was not the form taught by Jesus, who said in connection with the church to go to all people in the world, "Baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." Holy Ghost religion is the kind needed today. When these early Christians had received this, they had power.

When Christians of today have the fire of the Holy Ghost, they have power, and without which they are powerless for good. The speaker was not, however, a believer in sinless perfection, and said that he was very skeptical of the man who comes to him and says, "I've quit sinning." He thought he was better able, because he recognized his own imperfections at the same time his ardent desire to lead a holy life, to go to a man out of Christ and lead him into the fold than he would be were he to go to him professing present complete sanctification. He claimed that the well known lack of spirituality in the church is the cause of lack of interest of non-professors. He earnestly pleaded for the same kind of preliminary work as was done by the early Christians, who "continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, waiting for the infilling of the Holy Ghost."

A Legend of the Salty Sea.

There are hundreds of queer myths and traditions given to account for the fact that the sea is salt. The Arabs say that when the first pair sinned they were living in a beautiful garden on a tract of land joined to a mainland by a narrow neck or isthmus. When it became known to the Holy One that his people had sinned, he went to the garden for the purpose of driving them out and across the narrow neck of land into the patch of thorns and brambles on the other side. Anticipating what would be the consequence of their heinous crime, they had prepared to leave their beautiful garden and had actually gone so far as to send the children and goats across into the thicket.

When the Holy One appeared on the scene, the first pair started to run, but the woman looked back. For this the man cursed her and for such a crime was almost immediately turned into a block of salt. Compare with Genesis xix, 26. The woman, more forgiving than her husband, stooped to pick up the shapeless mass of salt, when immediately the narrow neck of land began to crack and break. As she touched what had once been her companion she, too, was turned to salt just as the neck of the land sank and the waters rushed through. From that day to this, the Arabs say, all the waters of the ocean have rushed through that narrow channel at least once a year, constantly wearing away the salt of what was once our first parents, yet the bulk of the two salty objects is not diminished in the least.

How General Butler Freed a Man.

General Butler's gift for springing out and taking advantage of every technicality was fully illustrated in the famous case of a respectfully connected man in Boston, who, being affected with a mania for stealing, was brought to trial on four indictments. General Butler was the prisoner's counsel. If the prisoner was convicted on all four indictments, he would be liable to imprisonment for 60 years. As the court was assembling General Butler agreed with the counsel for the prosecution that three indictments should be quashed on condition that the prisoner should plead guilty to the one which charged the theft of the greatest amount.

The prisoner, to his amazement, was ordered by his counsel to plead guilty. "Say guilty, sir," said the general sternly. The man obeyed, and the other three indictments were not pressed. But when the counsel for the prosecution moved for sentence General Butler pointed out a fatal flaw, manifest to every one when attention was called to it. In ten minutes the astonished prisoner was a free man. It is said that the court laughed at the ruse, the cleverness of which it was impossible not to admire.

Slandering the Cook.

Here is something that a woman who knows says is a sure diagnosis of the status of the cook. If you have a good cook, you may be more or less sure that she will look too frequently upon the wine when it is red. It is an unfortunate fact, but if the cook is less than a $40 cook as little annoyance as possible may be expected from this weakness. Possibly it will never make itself manifest enough to be known above stairs. But if the cook has risen higher in the social scale of cooks than $40, then look out. A cook who is rated at over $40 may be expected to smash things.

If one chances to make a morning call at the house of a friend and discovers the servants crowded up stairs, frightened and trembling, while from below come the sounds of ironware skating across the kitchen and pottery crashing against the wall and between times the voice of the masculine head of the family gently expostulating or commanding in would be stern tones, then it may be known that that household has reached the dignity of a $50 or $60 cook.—New York Times.

Huxley and the Clergyman.

A rash clergyman once, without further equipment in natural history than some desultory reading, attacked the Darwinian theory in some sundry magazine articles in which he made himself uncommonly merry at Huxley's expense. This was intended to draw the great man's fire, and as the batteries remained silent the author proceeded to write to Huxley, calling his attention to the articles and at the same time, with mock modesty, asking advice as to the further study of these deep questions.

Huxley's answer was brief and to the point, "Take a cockroach and dissect it."—Argonaut.

Poison Proof Animals.

Neither differences of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the poisonous substance generally afford any clew for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the plant.

Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect is a different one, consisting of spasms. The meat of goats which had fed on hemlock has sometimes occasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nux vomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it, while in the smallest amount it is a fatal poison to rodents.

More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Cholepus hoffmanni, a kind of sloth living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely sensitive to foxglove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.

Fined For Death on Board.

"The only place, as far as law is concerned, where it costs money to die from natural causes is aboard a steamship," remarked a vessel owner. "The purpose of the law was excellent enough. There was a time when emigrants were being brought to this country in very large numbers, or 'by the shipload,' as it was termed. There is no doubt that there was crowding in the ships that brought them, and to prevent this a law was passed imposing upon the ship a fine of $10 for every death that occurred during the passage from natural causes of persons over 8 years of age. This put a stop to overcrowding, or, at least, it is supposed that it did, which is about the same thing. Ships do not fancy having to pay fines of this kind. "Of course, in comparison with the great army of persons who are brought across the ocean from month to month, there are very few deaths, for the statisticians have been kind enough to show beyond a doubt that the steamship is the safest means of transportation in existence, but, just the same, there are a considerable number in the course of a year."—Washington Star.

Epigrams in Fiction.

I always pray that I may never outlive my illusions or my front teeth, though all else may fail me.

Admiration is like porridge—awfully stodgy, but you get hungry again almost as soon as you've eaten it.

A good nose is an abiding resting place for vanity. You know that it will outlast your time and that age cannot wither nor custom stale its satisfactory proportions.

The quality of mercy should not be measured out by teaspoonsful in a medicine glass, but should be served round in a watering cart by the county council.

They've no sense, men haven't. The very best of them don't properly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy that they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are a-wrestling with them.

It is the duty of all women to be happy—the married ones to show that they don't wish they weren't married, and the unmarried ones to show that they don't wish they were.—New York Telegram.

The Rector's Prophecy.

A party of gentlemen, including Professor Bailey and Rector Roberts, a divine widely celebrated for his wit and the audacity of his puns, were crossing the campus of a well known university.

The reverend gentleman, commenting on the fact of his recent elevation to the greater dignity and the assumption of the more resounding title of a canon of the church, exclaimed, "And now that I am a canon I suppose I shall be a bigger bore than ever."

OPINION IS CHANGING

Cubans Now Considered Likely to Agree to the Platt Amendment.

RADICALS SEEK AN EXCUSE

Want Only a Little Concession, on Which to Recede—Convention May Become United on Commercial Interests' Demands.

Havana, March 25.—The action of the Republican party in Santiago in endorsing the Platt amendment and instructing Senors Gomez and Ferrer, of the Santiago delegation to the constitutional convention, to vote for the amendment, together with the letters of General Sanguilly and the mayor of Cienfuegos, advising acceptance, were incidents of last week, and tended to clear up the political atmosphere, until now there are few who do not expect the convention to approve the amendment.

The visit of American senators and congressmen had an excellent effect, as in no instance have the radicals received any encouragement in the notion that if action is delayed until the next congress there might be a change in the demands of the United States.

The radicals, however, insist that they cannot recede from their former position without loss of dignity, and they still hope that some concession, no matter how insignificant, may provide a sufficient excuse.

Already the radicals are taking their cue from the conservatives and pointing out that commercial interests demand recognition. There is a possibility of uniting the convention along this line. The platform of the conservatives calls for a reduction of American import duties on tobacco and sugar and approves any scheme of relations which the United States government sees fit to impose.

In fact, the situation is leading to a point where commercial interests will be the chief question under discussion at the next session of the convention, and it is not unlikely that a resolution will be adopted asking for a reciprocity treaty.

MUTILATED HERSELF.

Woman Used Scissors, While Probably Temporarily Insane.

Toledo, O., March 25.—Mrs. G. Bruntschneider, residing near the city limits, occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital and is in a serious condition as the result of horrible injuries self-inflicted.

Armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all toes of her left foot, both her ears close to the head, and about an inch of her nose. She then cut out a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in the left cheek, and finally began on her arms. Beginning at her left forearm, she removed every vestige of skin, laying bare the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home in the morning and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition. A surgeon was called at once and she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Sat Alone in a Chair a Charred and Blackened Corpse.

Pittsburg, March 25.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Port Perry some time Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Riling, a widow, aged 76, was found suffocated to death in her home there. She lived by herself in a four-roomed house, although a son, Daniel Riling, lived in the village.

In the room in which she slept flames had entirely destroyed the bed and chairs, but no trace of Mrs. Riling could be found.

In the kitchen she was found apparently asleep in a big rocking chair. Upon examination it was found she was dead and horribly burned. Deputy Coroner Huchel was summoned and held an inquest. It developed that Mrs. Riling kept a coal fire burning in her bed room. It is surmised that a live coal falling onto the carpet set fire to it. When discovered by the woman, it had evidently gained much headway and before she could escape from the room her night robes caught fire.

Mrs. Riling was rather feeble and it is thought she was overcome by the dense smoke and swooned in the chair in the kitchen while trying to reach the rear door.

Americans Congratulated Diaz.

Mexico City, March 25.—The members of the American embassy staff, headed by Charge d'Affaires Fenton McReery, called on President Diaz, at the national palace and congratulated him on his restoration to his usual health. The president was in excellent spirits and much gratified at this manifestation of good will.

BURNING OIL FLOWED.

POURED DOWN INTO A NEW JERSEY VILLAGE.

11 Buildings and Other Property Destroyed—Railway Tracks Damaged—Peculiar Accident.

New York, March 25.—A river of flaming oil swept down upon the little village of Glengardner, N. J., while its inhabitants were asleep and reduced 11 buildings, stores and residences to ashes.

The village is in a valley, along the line of the Jersey Central railroad.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The engineer on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sidewise across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in out-buildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

Threats Against Players.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

RIVER BUSINESS.

Several Towboats Passed And Passenger Business Was Good.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 10 feet and falling. The regular Sunday boats, Virginia, Kanawha and Ben Hur, passed up yesterday, and they all did a good business at this port. The following towboats passed this city Saturday and yesterday: Down—William G. Horner, Jim Wood. Up—Charles Hook, Ed Roberts.

The Princess brought a tow of sand to this city yesterday afternoon and immediately returned to Pittsburg. The Kanawha had a very large passenger list, bringing about 69 passengers to this city.

Sat Alone in a Chair a Charred and Blackened Corpse.

Pittsburg, March 25.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Port Perry some time Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Riling, a widow, aged 76, was found suffocated to death in her home there. She lived by herself in a four-roomed house, although a son, Daniel Riling, lived in the village.

In the room in which she slept flames had entirely destroyed the bed and chairs, but no trace of Mrs. Riling could be found.

In the kitchen she was found apparently asleep in a big rocking chair. Upon examination it was found she was dead and horribly burned. Deputy Coroner Huchel was summoned and held an inquest. It developed that Mrs. Riling kept a coal fire burning in her bed room. It is surmised that a live coal falling onto the carpet set fire to it. When discovered by the woman, it had evidently gained much headway and before she could escape from the room her night robes caught fire.

Mrs. Riling was rather feeble and it is thought she was overcome by the dense smoke and swooned in the chair in the kitchen while trying to reach the rear door.

Americans Congratulated Diaz.

Mexico City, March 25.—The members of the American embassy staff, headed by Charge d'Affaires Fenton McReery, called on President Diaz, at the national palace and congratulated him on his restoration to his usual health. The president was in excellent spirits and much gratified at this manifestation of good will.

BURNING OIL FLOWED.

POURED DOWN INTO A NEW JERSEY VILLAGE.

11 Buildings and Other Property Destroyed—Railway Tracks Damaged—Peculiar Accident.

New York, March 25.—A river of flaming oil swept down upon the little village of Glengardner, N. J., while its inhabitants were asleep and reduced 11 buildings, stores and residences to ashes.

The village is in a valley, along the line of the Jersey Central railroad.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The engine on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sidewise across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in out-buildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

Threats Against Players.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

RIVER BUSINESS.

Several Towboats Passed And Passenger Business Was Good.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered 10 feet and falling. The regular Sunday boats, Virginia, Kanawha and Ben Hur, passed up yesterday, and they all did a good business at this port. The following towboats passed this city Saturday and yesterday: Down—William G. Horner, Jim Wood. Up—Charles Hook, Ed Roberts.

The Princess brought a tow of sand to this city yesterday afternoon and immediately returned to Pittsburg. The Kanawha had a very large passenger list, bringing about 69 passengers to this city.

JAPAN SENDS FLEET

MOST JAPS AGAINST RUSSIA

Korean Government Dismissed an Englishman From Director Generalship of Customs—Great Britain Protests.

London, March 25.—“A Japanese squadron, Admiral Tsushima commanding, left Nagasaki Saturday for Korea,” says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. “The general opinion here is that the situation is serious. Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense.

“The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy.”

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pu San. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. Pavloff, Russian minister at Seoul, protested against Korea taking foreigners into the government service with the exception of Russians and demanded the appointment of the latter, but Korea seemed determined with the help of the powers, to defend her integrity.

JEW KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Average of One a Year and 12 Assaulted a Day.

Chicago, March 25.—Twelve men assaulted in Chicago each day for no other reason than that they are Jews, with the average of one death a year growing out of these assaults, were figures presented at an indignation meeting of Jewish peddlers. The police, the speakers declare, make little effort to protect members of their race from the attacks of hoodlums. In several instances, it was said, the police had looked on when such attacks were being made and failed to interfere.

After half a dozen speakers had spoken on the protest, the Chicago Protective league was organized to demand that the police protect the Jews. A committee was appointed to perfect the organization and arrange for a mass meeting next week for the purpose of arousing public interest in the movement.

RAIDS BY REFORMERS.

Number of Prisoners Let Out on Bail in New York.

New York, March 25.—Justice Jerome, of the court of special sessions, visited five police stations and admitted to bail 33 prisoners who were captured last Saturday night in several raids made by the committee of fifteen.

The proprietor and night clerk of the Hotel Virginia; Henry McGurk, alleged manager of the Brighton Music hall, otherwise known as “McGurk’s suicide hall,” with a singer and housekeeper of the same place, and a colored woman captured in the “Berlin,” were each held in $500 bail. The other prisoners, who included managers, barkeepers and other persons connected with the “Savoy,” “Royal Garden” and the “Pekin” were each held in $300 bail.

Accused of Murdering a Girl.

Middlebury, Vt., March 25.—Nelson Jones, about 25 years of age, of Shoreham, was lodged in jail on a warrant charging him with the murder of Miss Ida Fosburgh, at Shoreham, on March 12, by poisoning. The young woman was engaged to be married to Aldace Vondette, who was recently charged with having caused her death and who after being held a few days was released.

Accordingly.

“She’s well educated, isn’t she?” “Well, she’s one of those women who can pass as being that way. When she meets any one who can speak French and not German, she can speak German, and when she meets any one who can speak German and not French she can speak French.”—Indianapolis Sun.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

ASTER is certainly the season for dainty gowns and soft laces. My lady casts aside her Lenten garments of black and purple, and arrays herself like the spring flowers in robes of the fairest tints. Over her masses of fluffy hair she tilts a hat covered with roses, which cast deep pink shadows on her cheeks. Her gown is pale and clinging, and her dimpled chin rests among the frills of a chiffon or lace boa, which accentuates her youth and grace. Truly the Easter girl is always fair, but this year she is fairer than ever. Never before have the fashions been so artistic and so well calculated to enhance the charms of a pretty woman. Take the very dress materials themselves, for instance: they are all soft and clinging. Veilings, crepe de chine, and grenadines are the fabrics for dressy gowns, and the ever popular foulard is relegated to the second place. As for the colors, they are a little brighter this season, but they still follow the pastel shades—mauve, cafe au lait, pearl, pale rose, pale blue and pale green. All shades of red and green are being much used by the fashionable dressmakers, and as the season advances they are more and more in evidence. Old rose is just as popular this spring as it was last winter, and nothing makes a prettier gown for a brunette than an old rose veiling trimmed with black chantilly lace. Speaking of veilings, many of them come beautifully embroidered in a lace pattern, and others come with a border of gold applique.

After a long exile chollies have come to the front once more. Last summer a few fashionable women had seashore gowns made of this material, and in every case they were admired. This year any number of people are having are many. In the first place, it is soft and silky, lending itself to tuckings and shirrings; secondly, it comes in all the delicate patterns and shadings of organdie, and, lastly, it will stand any amount of dampness and hard wear.

Foulards will always be used more or less by people who like to wear a silk gown. Most of the foulards this season come with a satin finish even more lustrous than last year. The more dressy ones are pale colored mauve, pearl gray or pale green. There is a new material called waterproof foulard, but this remains to be tested by actual wear. Many of the newest designs, both in chollies and foulards, are Persian, and, indeed, at a little distance they produce the effect of the pannes we have been wearing all winter.

The new muslins are dainty in the extreme. Pale blue is the favorite color and dotted muslin the leading material. These blue gowns are very pretty for young girls. They are made over soft silk slips of the same color and are trimmed with black and sometimes a touch of the palest yellow. The thin materials come hemstitched, embroidered or tucked with broad lace insertions. Fashion demands this year that all pretentious gowns shall be covered with fine needlework and that the trimmings shall be dainty instead of striking. Dashes of color are supplied by huge rosettes of contrasting color or bows of black velvet. Beadings through which tiny black velvet ribbons are run form a prominent feature of many gowns. Sashes are also all the style for those who can afford them. They come very wide and most beautifully tinted in Persian flower designs, so that they cost small fortunes. This is a ribbon season, and soft panne and glace ribbons are much used. These are crumpled into smart bows, and the latest thing is the mixture of several shades in one bow. However, they must be variations of the same color; for instance, the reds from coral to ox blood and the mauve orchid tints. Broad lace scarfs are also used for bows and sashes.

The new shirt waists do not differ greatly from those worn during the winter. They are not quite so plain, and the sleeves are made in the bishop style—full at the wrists. The principal novelty is in the collar. There is a growing tendency to softness, and many of the more expensive blouses have turndown collars of sheer batiste, hemstitched and tucked. A ribbon may or may not be worn beneath these, just as one's fancy dictates. Dressy waists are being made of crepe de chine. These are very much tucked and trimmed with lace.

The blouse and the Eton jacket prevail for street suits. Plain tailor makes are only worn by a very few women. The Etons are made with postilion backs for stout women and are cut short and rather baggy for the slender and youthful. Little fancy coats of black panne and tucked satin are replacing the taffeta affairs of last season. These are invariably lined with cream or pearl gray satin, and they are meant to be worn with fluffy fronts and directoire jabots. As for the skirts, they are being made almost plain in the back for those who can stand that style. The thin materials, however, are full in at the hips.

Never has the Easter hat been so pretty. This is a rose season, and the smartest creations are fairly loaded down with these flowers. As regards shapes the milliners have been kind to people with irregular features. There is no one set style, and the brims all curl softly to suit the different faces. The crowns are low, but not so flat as during the winter season. Chiffon is a favorite material, and when tucked and combined with lace it forms the dressiest of all headgear. Hats made entirely out of ribbon are a novelty, and marquis hats of crepe are very pretty when made in pale blue pink or yellow and trimmed with big choux of black net. Large buckles of pearl and jet ornament the handsomer lace and tulle hats.

This is a season of small accessories, and the woman who wants to appear well dressed cannot afford to ignore this fact. The smart woman will provide herself with chiffon boas, lace collars, crinkled satin and velvet bows for the hair to match her different gowns and big choux of contrasting shades to wear with her light dresses. Marie Antoinette fichus are being worn more than ever and short lace boleros with long ends which tie. In choosing these little articles of dress it is only necessary to consider one's individual style. There are designs for every one, and there is no excuse for the woman who looks prim or mannish this season.

MANAGER CAREY

Manager George Carey, of the Buffalo base ball club, left last evening for that city to assume charge of the team. Mr. Carey had intended leaving on Friday, but was detained.

He states the team is in first-class form, and he is well pleased with the progress made. The club will leave Buffalo on next Monday for a tour of two weeks in the west. During the trip the club will play exhibition games in Ft. Wayne, Indianapolis, Ash-tabula, Terre Haute, Toledo, Dunkirk and several other smaller towns.

The team will return to Buffalo about the middle of April, at which time it is expected they will be in the pink of condition.

JAPAN SENDS FLEET

MOST JAPS AGAINST RUSSIA

Korean Government Dismissed an Englishman From Director Generalship of Customs—Great Britain Protests.

London, March 25.—"A Japanese squadron, Admiral Tsushima commanding, left Nagasaki Saturday for Korea," says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. "The general opinion here is that the situation is serious. Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense.

"The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy."

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pusan. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. Pavloff, Russian minister at Seoul, protested against Korea taking foreigners into the government service with the exception of Russians and demanded the appointment of the latter, but Korea seemed determined with the help of the powers, to defend her integrity.

JEWS KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Average of One a Year and 12 Assaulted a Day.

Chicago, March 25.—Twelve men assaulted in Chicago each day for no other reason than that they are Jews, with the average of one death a year growing out of these assaults, were figures presented at an indignation meeting of Jewish peddlers. The police, the speakers declare, make little effort to protect members of their race from the attacks of hoodlums. In several instances, it was said, the police had looked on when such attacks were being made and failed to interfere.

After half a dozen speakers had spoken on the protest, the Chicago Protective league was organized to demand that the police protect the Jews. A committee was appointed to perfect the organization and arrange for a mass meeting next week for the purpose of arousing public interest in the movement.

RAIDS BY REFORMERS.

Number of Prisoners Let Out on Bail in New York.

New York, March 25.—Justice Jerome, of the court of special sessions, visited five police stations and admitted to bail 33 prisoners who were captured late Saturday night in several raids made by the committee of fifteen.

The proprietor and night clerk of the Hotel Virginia; Henry McGurk, alleged manager of the Brighton Music hall, otherwise known as "McGurk's suicide hall," with a singer and housekeeper of the same place, and a colored woman captured in the "Berlin," were each held in $500 bail. The other prisoners, who included managers, barkeepers and other persons connected with the "Savoy," "Royal Garden" and the "Pekin" were each held in $300 bail.

Accused of Murdering a Girl.

Middlebury, Vt., March 25.—Nelson Jones, about 25 years of age, of Shoreham, was lodged in jail on a warrant charging him with the murder of Miss Ida Fosburgh, at Shoreham, on March 12, by poisoning. The young woman was engaged to be married to Aldace Vondette, who was recently charged with having caused her death and who after being held a few days was released.

Accordingly, "She's well educated, isn't she?" "Well, she's one of those women who can pass as being that way. When she meets any one who can speak French and not German, she can speak German, and when she meets any one who can speak German and not French she can speak French."—Indianapolis Sun

IN FASHION'S REALM.

ASTER is certainly the season for dainty gowns and soft laces. My lady casts aside her Lenten garments of black and purple and arrays herself like the spring flowers in robes of the fairest tints. Over her masses of fluffy hair she tilts a hat covered with roses, which cast deep pink shadows on her cheeks. Her gown is pale and clinging, and her dimpled chin rests among the frills of a chiffon or lace boa, which accentuates her youth and grace. Truly the Easter girl is always fair, but this year she is fairer than ever. Never before have the fashions been so artistic and so well calculated to enhance the charms of a pretty woman. Take the very dress materials themselves, for instance: they are all soft and clinging. Vellings, crepe de chine, and grenadines are the fabrics for dressy gowns, and the ever popular foulard is relegated to the second place. As for the colors, they are a little brighter this season, but they still follow the pastel shades—mauve, cafe au lait, pearl, pale rose, pale blue and pale green. All shades of red and green are being much used by the fashionable dressmakers, and as the season advances they are more and more in evidence. Old rose is just as popular this spring as it was last winter, and nothing makes a prettier gown for a brunette than an old rose veiling trimmed with black chantilly lace. Speaking of vellings, many of them come beautifully embroidered in a lace pattern, and others come with a border of gold applique.

After a long exile challies have come to the front once more. Last summer a few fashionable women had seashore gowns made of this material, and in every case they were admired. This year any number of people are having dresses made of it. Its good qualities

are many. In the first place, it is soft and silky, lending itself to tuckings and shirrings; secondly, it comes in all the delicate patterns and shadings of organdie, and, lastly, it will stand any amount of dampness and hard wear.

Foulards will always be used more or less by people who like to wear a silk gown. Most of the foulards this season come with a satin finish even more lustrous than last year. The more dressy ones are pale colored mauve, pearl gray or pale green. There is a new material called waterproof foulard, but this remains to be tested by actual wear. Many of the newest designs, both in challies and foulards, are Persian, and, indeed, at a little distance they produce the effect of the pannes we have been wearing all winter.

The new muslins are dainty in the extreme. Pale blue is the favorite color and dotted muslin the leading material. These blue gowns are very pretty for young girls. They are made over soft silk slips of the same color and are trimmed with black and sometimes a touch of the palest yellow. The thin materials come hemstitched, embroidered or tucked with broad lace insertions. Fashion demands this year that all pretentious gowns shall be covered with fine needlework and that the trimmings shall be dainty instead of striking. Dashes of color are supplied by huge rosettes of contrasting color or bows of black velvet. Beadings through which tiny black velvet ribbons are run form a prominent feature of many gowns. Sashes are also all the style for those who can afford them. They come very wide and most beautifully tinted in Persian flower designs, so that they cost small fortunes. This is a ribbon season, and soft panne and glace ribbons are much used. These are crumpled into smart bows, and the latest thing is the mixture of several shades in one bow. However, they must be variations of the same color; for instance, the reds from coral to ox blood and the mauve orchid tints. Broad lace scarfs are also used for bows and sashes.

The new shirt waists do not differ greatly from those worn during the winter. They are not quite so plain, and the sleeves are made in the bishop style—full at the wrists. The principal novelty is in the collar. There is a growing tendency to softness, and many of the more expensive blouses have turndown collars of sheer batiste, hemstitched and tucked. A ribbon may or may not be worn beneath these, just as one's fancy dictates. Dressy waists are being made of crepe de chine. These are very much tucked and trimmed with lace.

The blouse and the Eton jacket prevail for street suits. Plain tailor made are only worn by a very few women. The Etons are made with postilion backs for stout women and are cut short and rather baggy for the slender and youthful. Little fancy coats of black panne and tucked satin are replacing the taffeta affairs of last season. These are invariably lined with cream or pearl gray satin, and they are meant to be worn with fluffy fronts and directoire jabots. As for the skirts, they are being made almost plain in the back for those who can stand that style. The thin materials, however, are filled in at the hips.

Never has the Easter hat been so pretty. This is a rose season, and the smartest creations are fairly loaded down with these flowers. As regards shapes the milliners have been kind to people with irregular features. There is no one set style, and the brims all curl softly to suit the different faces. The crowns are low, but not so flat as during the winter season. Chiffon is a favorite material, and when tucked and combined with lace it forms the dressiest of all headgear. Hats made entirely out of ribbon are a novelty, and marquise hats of crepe are very pretty when made in pale blue pink or yellow and trimmed with big choux of black net. Large buckles of pearl and jet ornament the handsomer lace and tulle hats.

This is a season of small accessories, and the woman who wants to appear well dressed cannot afford to ignore this fact. The smart woman will provide herself with chiffon boas, lace collars, crinkled satin and velvet bows for the hair to match her different gowns and big choux of contrasting shades to wear with her light dresses. Marie Antoinette fichus are being worn more than ever and short lace boleros with long ends which tie. In choosing these little articles of dress it is only necessary to consider one's individual style. There are designs for every one, and there is no excuse for the woman who looks prim or mannish this season.

THIRTY-TWO MORE.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. S. L. Boston's Able Sermon on the Power of the Spirit.

Notwithstanding the absence of Rev. N. M. Crowe, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the meetings which were commenced a week ago are growing in interest. The talented musician, Mr. D. C. Montgomery, has been singing the gospel. Sunday morning he very touchingly sang "A Dream of Paradise." At the evening service he sang "The Holy City." Rev. S. L. Boston preached two fine sermons yesterday and will preach every evening during this week.

Mr. Boston's morning sermon was based on the text, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed." His plea was for those who already profess Christianity to practice more of its principles. The people of Ephesus, to whom this question was propounded, knew only the baptism of John, and had "not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." The speaker referred to the special stress laid by some Christians upon what they term the proper mode of baptism. Whatever may have been the manner or mode pursued by John or the words which he used, it was not the form taught by Jesus, who said in connection with the church to go to all people in the world, "Baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." Holy Ghost religion is the kind needed today. When these early Christians had received this, they had power.

When Christians of today have the fire of the Holy Ghost, they have power, and without which they are powerless for good. The speaker was not, however, a believer in sinless perfection, and said that he was very skeptical of the man who comes to him and says, "I've quit sinning." He thought he was better able, because he recognized his own imperfections at the same time his ardent desire to lead a holy life, to go to a man out of Christ and lead him into the fold than he would be were he to go to him professing present complete sanctification. He claimed that the well known lack of spirituality in the church is the cause of lack of interest of non-professors. He earnestly pleaded for the same kind of preliminary work as was done by the early Christians, who "continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, waiting for the infilling of the Holy Ghost."

Much good is being accomplished at the meetings in the Christian church. Services tonight at 7:45.

A Legend of the Salty Sea.

There are hundreds of queer myths and traditions given to account for the fact that the sea is salt. The Arabs say that when the first pair sinned they were living in a beautiful garden on a tract of land joined to a mainland by a narrow neck or isthmus. When it became known to the Holy One that his people had sinned, he went to the garden for the purpose of driving them out and across the narrow neck of land into the patch of thorns and brambles on the other side. Anticipating what would be the consequence of their heinous crime, they had prepared to leave their beautiful garden and had actually gone so far as to send the children and goats across into the thicket.

When the Holy One appeared on the scene, the first pair started to run, but the woman looked back. For this the man cursed her and for such a crime was almost immediately turned into a block of salt. Compare with Genesis xix, 26. The woman, more forgiving than her husband, stooped to pick up the shapeless mass of salt, when immediately the narrow neck of land began to crack and break. As she touched what had once been her companion she, too, was turned to salt just as the neck of the land sank and the waters rushed through. From that day to this, the Arabs say, all the waters of the ocean have rushed through that narrow channel at least once a year, constantly wearing away the salt of what was once our first parents, yet the bulk of the two salty objects is not diminished in the least.

How General Butler Freed a Man.

General Butler's gift for springing out and taking advantage of every technicality was fully illustrated in the famous case of a respectably connected man in Boston, who, being affected with a mania for stealing, was brought to trial on four indictments. General Butler was the prisoner's counsel. If the prisoner was convicted on all four indictments, he would be liable to imprisonment for 60 years. As the court was assembling General Butler agreed with the counsel for the prosecution that three indictments should be quashed on condition that the prisoner should plead guilty to the one which charged the theft of the greatest amount.

The prisoner, to his amazement, was ordered by his counsel to plead guilty. "Say guilty, sir," said the general sternly. The man obeyed, and the other three indictments were not pressed. But when the counsel for the prosecution moved for sentence General Butler pointed out a fatal flaw, manifest to every one when attention was called to it. In ten minutes the astonished prisoner was a free man. It is said that the court laughed at the ruse, the cleverness of which it was impossible not to admire.

Slandering the Cook.

Here is something that a woman who knows says is a sure diagnosis of the status of the cook. If you have a good cook, you may be more or less sure that she will look too frequently upon the wine when it is red. It is an unfortunate fact, but if the cook is less than a $40 cook as little annoyance as possible may be expected from this weakness. Possibly it will never make itself manifest enough to be known above stairs. But if the cook has risen higher in the social scale of cooks than $40, then look out. A cook who is rated at over $40 may be expected to smash things.

If one chances to make a morning call at the house of a friend and discovers the servants crowded up stairs, frightened and trembling, while from below come the sounds of ironware crashing against the wall and between times the voice of the masculine head of the family gently expostulating or commanding in would be stern tones, then it may be known that that household has reached the dignity of a $50 or $60 cook.—New York Times.

Huxley and the Clergyman.

A rash clergyman once, without further equipment in natural history than some desultory reading, attacked the Darwinian theory in some sundry magazine articles in which he made himself uncommonly merry at Huxley's expense. This was intended to draw the great man's fire, and as the batteries remained silent the author proceeded to write to Huxley, calling his attention to the articles and at the same time, with mock modesty, asking advice as to the further study of these deep questions.

Huxley's answer was brief and to the point, "Take a cockroach and dissect it."—Argonaut.

Poison Proof Animals.

Neither differences of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the poisonous substance generally afford any clue for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the plant.

Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect is a different one, consisting of spasms. The meat of goats which had fed on hemlock has sometimes occasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nuxvomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it, while in the smallest amount it is a fatal poison to rodents.

More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Cholepus hoffmanni, a kind of sloth living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely sensitive to foxglove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.

Fined For Death on Board.

"The only place, as far as law is concerned, where it costs money to die from natural causes is aboard a steamship," remarked a vessel owner. "The purpose of the law was excellent enough. There was a time when emigrants were being brought to this country in very large numbers, or 'by the shipload,' as it was termed. There is no doubt that there was crowding in the ships that brought them, and to prevent this a law was passed imposing upon the ship a fine of $10 for every death that occurred during the passage from natural causes of persons over 8 years of age. This put a stop to overcrowding, or, at least, it is supposed that it did, which is about the same thing. Ships do not fancy having to pay fines of this kind. "Of course, in comparison with the great army of persons who are brought across the ocean from month to month, there are very few deaths, for the statisticians have been kind enough to show beyond a doubt that the steamship is the safest means of transportation in existence, but, just the same, there are a considerable number in the course of a year."—Washington Star.

Epigrams in Fiction.

I always pray that I may never outlive my illusions or my front teeth, though all else may fail me.

Admiration is like porridge—awfully stodgy, but you get hungry again almost as soon as you've eaten it.

A good nose is an abiding resting place for vanity. You know that it will outlast your time and that age cannot wither nor custom stale its satisfactory proportions.

The quality of mercy should not be measured out by teaspoonsful in a medicine glass, but should be sent round in a watering cart by the county council.

They've no sense, men haven't. The very best of them don't properly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy that they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are a-wrestling with them.

It is the duty of all women to look happy—the married ones to show that they don't wish they weren't married, and the unmarried ones to show that they don't wish they were.—New York Telegram.

The Rector's Prophecy.

A party of gentlemen, including Professor Bailey and Rector Roberts, a divine widely celebrated for his wit and the audacity of his puns, were crossing the campus of a well known university.

The reverend gentleman, commenting on the fact of his recent elevation to the greater dignity and the assumption of the more resounding title of a canon of the church, exclaimed, "And now that I am a canon I suppose I shall be a bigger bore than ever."

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Notwithstanding the absence of Rev. N. M. Crowe, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the meetings which were commenced a week ago are growing in interest. The talented musician, Mr. D. C. Montgomery, has been singing the gospel. Sunday morning he very touchingly sang "A Dream of Paradise." At the evening service he sang "The Holy City." Rev. S. L. Boston preached two fine sermons yesterday and will preach every evening during this week.

Mr. Boston's morning sermon was based on the text, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed." His plea was for those who already profess Christianity to practice more of its principles. The people of Ephesus, to whom this question was propounded, knew only the baptism of John, and had "not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." The speaker referred to the special stress laid by some Christians upon what they term the proper mode of baptism. Whatever may have been the manner or mode pursued by John or the words which he used, it was not the form taught by Jesus, who said in connection with the church to go to all people in the world. "Baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." Holy Ghost religion is the kind needed today. When these early Christians had received this, they had power.

When Christians of today have the fire of the Holy Ghost, they have power, and without which they are powerless for good. The speaker was not, however, a believer in sinless perfection, and said that he was very skeptical of the man who comes to him and says, "I've quit sinning." He thought he was better able, because he recognized his own imperfections at the same time his ardent desire to lead a holy life, to go to a man out of Christ and lead him into the fold than he would be were he to go to him professing present complete sanctification. He claimed that the well known lack of spirituality in the church is the cause of lack of interest of non-professors. He earnestly pleaded for the same kind of preliminary work as was done by the early Christians, who "continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, waiting for the infilling of the Holy Ghost."

A Legend of the Salty Sea.

There are hundreds of queer myths and traditions given to account for the fact that the sea is salt. The Arabs say that when the first pair sinned they were living in a beautiful garden on a tract of land joined to a mainland by a narrow neck or isthmus. When it became known to the Holy One that his people had sinned, he went to the garden for the purpose of driving them out and across the narrow neck of land into the patch of thorns and brambles on the other side. Anticipating what would be the consequence of their heinous crime, they had prepared to leave their beautiful garden and had actually gone so far as to send the children and goats across into the thicket.

When the Holy One appeared on the scene, the first pair started to run, but the woman looked back. For this the man cursed her and for such a crime was almost immediately turned into a block of salt. Compare with Genesis xix, 26. The woman, more forgiving than her husband, stooped to pick up the shapeless mass of salt, when immediately the narrow neck of land began to crack and break. As she touched what had once been her companion she, too, was turned to salt just as the neck of the land sank and the waters rushed through. From that day to this, the Arabs say, all the waters of the ocean have rushed through that narrow channel at least once a year, constantly wearing away the salt of what was once our first parents, yet the bulk of the two salty objects is not diminished in the least.

How General Butler Freed a Man.

General Butler's gift for springing out and taking advantage of every technicality was fully illustrated in the famous case of a respectably connected man in Boston, who, being affected with a mania for stealing, was brought to trial on four indictments. General Butler was the prisoner's counsel. If the prisoner was convicted on all four indictments, he would be liable to imprisonment for 60 years. As the court was assembling General Butler agreed with the counsel for the prosecution that three indictments should be quashed on condition that the prisoner should plead guilty to the one which charged the theft of the greatest amount.

The prisoner, to his amazement, was ordered by his counsel to plead guilty. "Say guilty, sir," said the general sternly. The man obeyed, and the other three indictments were not pressed. But when the counsel for the prosecution moved for sentence General Butler pointed out a fatal flaw, manifest to every one when attention was called to it. In ten minutes the astonished prisoner was a free man. It is said that the court laughed at the ruse, the cleverness of which it was impossible not to admire.

Slandering the Cook.

Here is something that a woman who knows says is a sure diagnosis of the status of the cook. If you have a good cook, you may be more or less sure that she will look too frequently upon the wine when it is red. It is an unfortunate fact, but if the cook is less than a $40 cook as little annoyance as possible may be expected from this weakness. Possibly it will never make itself manifest enough to be known above stairs. But if the cook has risen higher in the social scale of cooks than $40, then look out. A cook who is rated at over $49 may be expected to smash things.

If one chances to make a morning call at the house of a friend and discovers the servants crowded up stairs, frightened and trembling, while from below come the sounds of ironware skating across the kitchen and pottery crashing against the wall and between times the voice of the masculine head of the family gently expostulating or commanding in would be stern tones, then it may be known that that household has reached the dignity of a $50 or $60 cook.—New York Times.

Huxley and the Clergyman.

A rash clergyman once, without further equipment in natural history than some desultory reading, attacked the Darwinian theory in some sundry magazine articles in which he made himself uncommonly merry at Huxley's expense. This was intended to draw the great man's fire, and as the batteries remained silent the author proceeded to write to Huxley, calling his attention to the articles and at the same time, with mock modesty, asking advice as to the further study of these deep questions.

Huxley's answer was brief and to the point, "Take a cockroach and dissect it."—Argonaut.

Poison Proof Animals.

Neither differences of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the poisonous substance generally afford any clue for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the plant.

Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect is a different one, consisting of spasms. The meat of goats which had fed on hemlock has sometimes occasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nux vomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it, while in the smallest amount it is a fatal poison to rodents.

More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Cholepus hoffmanni, a kind of sloth living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely sensitive to foxglove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.

Fined For Death on Board.

"The only place, as far as law is concerned, where it costs money to die from natural causes is aboard a steamship," remarked a vessel owner. "The purpose of the law was excellent enough. There was a time when emigrants were being brought to this country in very large numbers, or 'by the shipload,' as it was termed. There is no doubt that there was crowding in the ships that brought them, and to prevent this a law was passed imposing upon the ship a fine of $10 for every death that occurred during the passage from natural causes of per-

"Of course, in comparison with the great army of persons who are brought across the ocean from month to month, there are very few deaths, for the statisticians have been kind enough to show beyond a doubt that the steamship is the safest means of transportation in existence, but, just the same, there are a considerable number in the course of a year."—Washington Star.

Epigrams in Fiction.

I always pray that I may never outlive my illusions or my front teeth, though all else may fail me.

Admiration is like porridge—awfully stodging, but you get hungry again almost as soon as you've eaten it.

The Rector's Prophecy.

A party of gentlemen, including Professor Bailey and Rector Roberts, a divine widely celebrated for his wit and the audacity of his puns, were crossing the campus of a well known university.

The reverend gentleman, commenting on the fact of his recent elevation to the greater dignity and the assumption of the more resounding title of a canon of the church, exclaimed, "And now that I am a canon I suppose I shall be a bigger bore than ever."

The Ticket That Won.

State Senator—CHARLES C. CONNELL.
Representative (Second Term)—SAMUEL BUELL.
Representative—D. W. CRIST.
Sheriff—SAMUEL D. NORAGON.
Auditor—J. F. ADAMS.
Treasurer—W. A. THOMPSON.
Commissioner—EDEN REEDER.
Infirmary Director—GEORGE W. ARMSTRONG.

The ticket given above, as published exclusively in the News Review extra Saturday night, represents the results of the Republican county primaries.

The vote received by each candidate as semi-officially reported from every voting precinct in the county will be found in tabulated form elsewhere in these columns. With its excellent news service and the assistance of friends throughout the county, the News Review is able to present for the first time in the history of the city a tabulated report embodying complete returns on Monday. These figures are not likely to be materially changed by the official count, to be made in Lisbon tomorrow.

The defeated candidates for the most part took their downfall gracefully, and in some cases have already announced their candidacy two years hence. East Liverpool was at least 700 short of its regular vote, and this contributed in a great measure to the defeat of the home candidates. When it became apparent toward evening that the vote was going to be extremely light, even the oldest politicians were at a loss to account for it.

The Fourth ward polled the largest number of votes and when the polls closed the books of the two precincts contained the names of 590 voters. The Second came next with 549, while the Third, First and Fifth had but 473, 530 and 230, respectively, which is very light compared with other like occasions.

There were several surprises in a number of the contests. It was pretty generally conceded that Reeder in the various wards was spirited. In some of the precincts as high as seven men were voted for.

The election, so far as East Liverpool was concerned, passed off in a very orderly manner, not even a dispute being reported from any quarter.

THE COMMITTEEMEN.

Vote in This City for Members of the Central Body.

The vote for members of the central committee was as follows in East Liverpool and Liverpool township:

bers his friends by the hundreds, and is, moreover, a thorough Republican, and active in the affairs of his party. All who know him say he will make a legislator of whom the county will be proud.

Samuel Buell, of Salem, is the present representative to the legislature. He made an excellent record during his first term and is conceded to be entitled to another. He is a business man, alert and progressive, and thoroughly alive to the needs of the county, and will diligently look after them at Columbus.

D. W. Crist, who won as a candidate for representative over three others, resides at Moultrie, and is widely known as a music publisher and composer of music. He is a musician of ability, a successful man of business and a thorough Republican.

William A. Thompson, of Salineville, the nominee for county treasurer, is about 42 years of age, and has spent most of his life in that town. He is a man of high standing in the business world, a member of the banking firm of H. A. Thompson Banking company, a man of genial disposition and highly popular. He has never voted any but the Republican ticket. He is a member of the United Presbyterian church, is prominent in local and county politics. He is married and resides at Salineville.

Sheriff Noragon, who is a candidate for a second term, has made an efficient and capable officer. His public record is too well known to require comment. He runs his office on business principles and the people will make no mistake in reelecting him.

J. Frank Adams, the present county

auditor, long served as deputy auditor and during his first term has carefully and faithfully looked after the interests of the county. There is not a flaw in his official record.

Eden Reeder, of Hanover township, is a successful farmer and an extensive stock dealer of wide acquaintance and prominence. He has never held any county office, but has always been a man of influence in his township. He is a man of keen judgment and good business ability, qualities which are demanded in the county commissioners' office.

George W. Armstrong, of Center township, the nominee for infirmary director, comes of an old and prominent Columbiana county family. His father was ex-Commissioner Andrew Armstrong and George W. was born in Elk Run township and brought up on a farm, followed school teaching for some years and afterward had some experience in the newspaper business. He was the first city editor of the Ohio Daily Patriot, of Lisbon, and has written much for the press. His poems have attracted more than local attention and some of them are excellent verse. His Republicanism is unquestioned.

The worst street car accident in the East End so far this spring occurred Saturday afternoon when car No. 5, in charge of Motorman Wolf, ran into car No. 1, in charge of Motorman Humble, near the switch on Mulberry street. The glass in the ends of each car was broken and both cars were racked considerably.

All of the occupants were badly shaken up and Mrs. Thomas Hays, an aged lady, residing on Pennsylvania avenue, fainted and was assisted to her home by Office Spence. The extent of her injuries is not yet known, but it is feared that she may be injured internally.

The accident is alleged to have been due to negligence on the part of one or the other of the motormen. The cars were running double-headed, and were so near together that when the front car stopped at this crossing the rear car could not be, or was not, stopped in time to avoid striking the rear end of the front car.

A large crowd was soon attracted by the accident, and it was at first reported that several persons were injured and that one lady had two ribs broken. The only injury reported at the power house was that of Mrs. Hays.

The exhaust pipe at the power house gave way about 1:30 Sunday morning and the electric lights were off and no cars were running until late yesterday afternoon. The pipe had been leaking for some time. It was being replaced by a new one, and the cars ran last night without a single mishap, or the loss of a minute's time.

It was reported that Mrs. Lewis had three ribs broken and lost a pocket-book containing $27.

OLD LANDMARK CONE.

The Ancient Walnut Tree in the East End Uprooted Today.

The old walnut tree just above the East End station was taken out by root and hauled away by the section gang this morning.

This old tree was a familiar landmark to all the older residents. It formerly marked the eastern corporation line of the city. One of the most common sports of the boys was to ride on the freight trains just past here and get off in full view of the policeman, who could not arrest them while outside the limits.

It will be recalled that it was on this tree that a man who was afterward forced to leave the city was hanged in effigy a few years ago, because of his attitude toward the East End Pottery company, which was negotiating for his land.

Many an interesting game has been played under the shade of this tree, and the old residents regret to see it taken away.

Four Young People Married Quietly at the East End M. E. Parsonage.

William C. Hamilton, of the East End, and Miss Alice Martin, of the city proper, and Linsley Mason Dearth, of the East End, and Miss Allie McCray, of the city proper, were quietly married at 7 o'clock Sunday evening at the parsonage of Rev. George W. Orcutt, of the Second M. E. church.

The young men were very close friends and the young ladies were intimate acquaintances, so all decided to have a double wedding. Mr. Dearth reached his majority on Sunday.

would win out, but a great majority of the voters had underestimated the strength of Carnes, who was a good second in the race for commissioner. Hileman did not make the showing his friends expected, and it is not likely he will be out in two years, as he announced that he would not make a second attempt.

East Liverpool had three candidates for representative, and all were defeated.

Pastor Jordan Stated a Truth in a Way That Caused Smiles.

An amusing incident occurred last evening at the First Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. C. G. Jordan, had taken the life of the late General Harrison as a topic for his discourse and had reached the point where Harrison was about to enter the army, Rev. Mr. Jordan said: "Our land was enshrouded in darkness." Just as he reached the word "darkness" the electric lights went out, but the pastor continued his sentence as follows: "Then, as we are now."

There was suppressed laughter in all parts of the church which continued until the gas was lighted.

Youngsters at Play Cause Mischief And Get a Bad Fright.

Two cars standing on a switch of the East Liverpool Coal company yesterday proved too great a temptation for a number of small boys of that neighborhood, and they boarded the cars and loosened the brakes.

When the cars started to move the youngsters became frightened and jumped off. The cars ran a distance of 100 yards when they left the rails. The shifter this morning placed the cars on the track.

Bargaining In the Orient.

In Smyrna, Turkey and Egypt the bargaining language is about the same.

"What you give, lady?"

"I won't give anything! I don't want it! What! Do you think I would carry that back to America?"

"But you take hold of him. You feel him silk. I think you want to buy. Ver' cheap. Only four pound!"

"Four pounds!" I say in French.

"Oh, you don't want to sell. You want to keep it! And at that price you will keep it!"

"Keep it!" in a shrill scream. "Not want to sell? Me? I here to sell! I sell you everything you see! I sell you the shop!" More wheedlingly, "You give me 40 francs?"

"No," in English again. "I'll give you $2."

"America! Liberty!" he cries, having cunningly established my nationality and flattering my country with oriental guile. "How much you give for him? Last price, now. Six dollars!"

We haggle over "last prices" for a quarter of an hour more, and after two cups of coffee amiably taken together and some general conversation I buy the thing for $3.—Lillian Bell in Woman's Home Companion.

Eating Railway Iron.

Iron for the blood has evidently been prescribed for the quails of Florida; at least, these birds are eating steel rails on the tracks of the sugar belt near Rummymede. The report, which is well authenticated, does not charge the quails with actually swallowing the rails, but it does say that they pick away their particles wherever they find a rusty spot where they are loosened.

From several points in the state comes the report of holes found in steel rails, and in cases they are large enough to seriously weaken the material. Where a rusty spot starts and is picked out, it naturally holds moisture, continues to rust, to be again picked out, and so the work of destruction goes on.

Railway engineers really believe that the quails take the iron tonic because they are not well and find that it relieves their distress.

To the Voters of the Fourth Ward.

The nomination for council in the Fourth ward came to Thomas F. Starkey unsolicited on his part. Mr. Starkey was born and lived in the Fourth ward. Most all his life, by his close economy, good business judgment and financial management, he has accumulated considerable valuable property located in the Fourth ward. Consequently the voters will make no mistake in sending Mr. Starkey to council to look after their interests. He stands for good city government, low taxation and the enforcement of law, which all good citizens demand.

EX-MAYOR'S SUICIDE

Niles, Mich., March 25.—W. J. Gilbert, former mayor of this town, reputed to be wealthy and one of the best known and most respected residents of Barrien county, was found dead in a storehouse in the rear of his residence, where he had ended his life with a bullet.

Grief over the misfortune of a bosom friend is believed to have caused the suicide. Warm personal relations existed between Mr. Gilbert and Charles A. Johnson, cashier of the First National bank, who fled a few hours before the failure of that institution, and who was brought back under arrest from Ohio a few days ago, charged with wrecking the bank.

Mr. Gilbert was Johnson's legal adviser, and trusted him unreservedly. The two were much together and their regard for each other was a matter of common knowledge among their associates. They were engaged in many enterprises together, and both for nearly 30 years had taken a leading part, commercially and politically, in the development of the town.

How far Mr. Gilbert's business affairs were effected by Johnson's operations and the collapse of the First National bank only a full investigation of that institution's condition can disclose. Mr. Gilbert, aside from his own holdings, held many estates in trust, acted as guardian in several instances, and acted as loan agent for considerable capital. He did much business through Johnson's bank, and it is thought was a large loser through the failure.

Grand Rapids, Mich., 25.—When informed of the suicide of ex-Mayor Gilbert, of Niles, Johnson said he had known him, for many years. "We were good friends, it is true," said he, "but it cannot be said he was one of my nearest and best friends. I cannot see how my troubles should have had anything to do with his act of suicide. He was a patron of the bank, but his balance on deposit at the time of the failure did not exceed $100."

VICE IN TENEMENTS

New York, March 25.—Leading Republican politicians of this city and state met in Senator Platt's rooms at the Fifth Avenue hotel and were in conference for several hours. As a result of the conference it was decided to attempt no police legislation this session.

It was asserted that the conference adjourned subject to the call of Senator Platt whenever in his judgment police legislation seemed necessary. All who were talked with said the conference was harmonious.

Long before the time for which the conference was called the corridors of the Fifth Avenue hotel were filled with state leaders and members of the legislature. Every one of the leaders summoned to the conference attended. There was a large sprinkling of local politicians, who were attracted to the place of conference, but who were not summoned as participants.

Though no one would say it directly, all who attended the conference admitted that it had come to the views of Governor Odell, and it was considered that he had virtually triumphed and that the organization was with him.

Lorn Blodgett Dead.

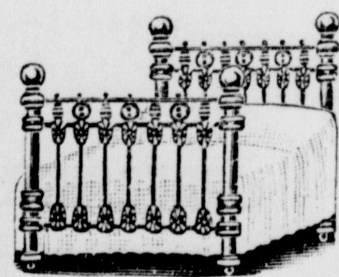

Philadelphia, March 25.—Lorn Blodgett, an eminent statistician and one of the foremost authorities on the higher economics, died here, aged 79 years. In 1851 he was made an assistant in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, in charge of researches on climatology. His works on atmospheric physics were among the first published in this country and performed an important part in establishing the science in the United States. In 1863 he took charge of the financial and statistical reports of the treasury department, and later became general appraiser of customs in Philadelphia. Subsequently he was made chief of the customs division of the treasury and also did governmental duty in New York. He resigned from the government service in 1877 and later held important Philadelphia positions.

MAN FOUND MURDERED.

Body Discovered In a Box Car, at Connellsville, Pa.

Cumberland, Md., March 25.—The body of a man apparently about 45 was found in a box car on the Baltimore and Ohio train when it pulled into the Connellsville ward. The man's head had been crushed in a blow, having evidently been delivered from behind with a blunt instrument. The man was well dressed and had a United States express card upon him, addressed to Edward Greenleaf, Cumberland, Md. He had called at the United States express office while here and stated that he was a friend of Greenleaf and had been requested to have a package which had been shipped here from Frederick shipped on the same receipt to Johnstown, Pa., which was done.

TO SLAY THE CZAR

Student Plot Discovered by the Police and Warning Given the Monarch.

BLOODY FIGHT WITH WORKMEN

London, March 25.—The Daily Mail publishes the following, dated March 24, from a St. Petersburg correspondent:

"Yesterday (Saturday) 500 workmen from the Obuchow Metal works paraded on the Nevskol prospect. On the way thither they demolished the state brandy booths. Eight hundred Cossacks, with drawn swords, met the workmen and a sanguinary encounter ensued. The number of killed and wounded is kept secret.

"The police have discovered a plot against the life of the czar. It appears that a group of students drew lots and that the fatal choice fell to the son of a prominent general. The student told his father, and the latter informed the czar, imploring him to leave St. Petersburg."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Express says: "In the last encounter at Narva Gate 100 workmen are reported to have been killed or wounded by the Cossacks."

St. Petersburg, March 25.—Karpovich, the assassin of M. Bogoliefoff, Russian minister of public instruction, was sentenced to hard labor for life. He will be imprisoned in the Schlusselburg fortress, on an island in the Neva.

AROUSING MRS. NATION.

Police Officers Accompanied Her at Leavenworth, Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—Mrs. Carrie Nation arrived here last evening from Leavenworth and left for St. Louis en route for Cincinnati, where she is booked to deliver half a dozen lectures. It was believed she would make an attempt at joint smashing in Leavenworth, but two policemen remained with her all the time she was in that city. She wanted to make a speech in the Leavenworth opera house, but this was locked against her. She then attempted to speak on the public square, but officers stopped her. Later she went to the southern part of the city and addressed an audience of about 500 persons on a vacant lot. She visited the National Soldiers' home at Fort Leavenworth and began abusing Governor Rowland for allowing a canteen to be run on the grounds. After listening to her a short time the governor called a captain of police and had her escorted off the grounds and placed on a car for the city. Along the route from Leavenworth to Kansas City she made rear platform speeches at different stops.

New York, March 25.—The Journal of Commerce today was expected to say in part:

The new can consolidation will go into practical operation today (Monday), the work of taking over and paying for the constituent properties having been completed on Saturday. The various plants will from now on be operated by the American Can company.

As already stated, it is probable that Edwin Norton will be president of the new company and that W. H. and J. H. Moore will be members of the board of directors. It is further said that the American Tinplate company will have representatives on the new board.

GOOD ADVICE BY PRIEST.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 25.—Rev. J. J. Curran, pastor of Holy Savior Catholic church, this city, the membership of which is made up principally of miners, told his congregation that a miners' strike at this time would be inopportune; that the men had not yet recovered from the last strike, and to quit work now would bring untold misery to many families.

Double Tragedy at Pine Ridge.

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 25.—The federal authorities here have been notified of a double tragedy on the Pine Ridge Indian reservation. Louis Cottier, a Sioux of mixed blood, was shot and killed at his ranch, on Spring creek, by William Day, a full-blooded Indian policeman sent from Pine Ridge agency surrounded Day, who shot and killed himself rather than submit to arrest. The motive for the killing of Cottier is unknown.

BLOCKED BY ODELL

New York, March 25.—Last evening Senator Platt gave out the following statement:

The general opinion of those at the conference was that the police conditions existing in New York ought to have the attention of the legislature, but that it would be useless to pass any bill, as the governor has declared that he would veto it. Some of those present favored a state police law, and others favored a metropolitan district, but it was conceded by all that nothing should be done at present.

"I regret the situation, as I believe that some action by the legislature is important for the city and the Republican party, and I think that such will be the general public opinion soon. But if nothing is to be done, and if the present bad conditions are to be submitted to, the legislature is not responsible for that.

"If it turns out in the next municipal election that the judgment which I have formed upon this subject has been wrong, then I shall be glad that Tammany has been left in control of the police."

Decided to Attempt No More Police Legislation, at Least Now.

New York, March 25.—The committee of fifteen sent a letter to Governor Odell, warmly endorsing the recommendation of the tenement house commission in regard to the driving out of vice from the tenement houses. The committee has devoted considerable time to this question, which was one of the things which called it into the field, and it is expected the full committee will go to Albany on Tuesday, when a hearing on the report of the tenement house commission will be held before the city's committee of the legislature. The letter reads in part as follows:

"The greatest of existing evils is the intrusion and wide extension of prostitution in tenement houses, the houses in which the great mass of wage earners are compelled to live. There will probably for a long time to come continue to be differences of opinion as to the degree in which it is possible to check social vice in our great cities, but there can be no two opinions as to the necessity of protecting children of tender years from close contact with depravity. An intimate acquaintance with adult vice should, at least, not be forced upon young children by permitting such vice to penetrate into the very houses in which they live. The cry of parents when they ask merely for the opportunity of bringing up their children in an atmosphere free from the pollution of the most degrading forms of moral evil, should surely be heeded."

The letter says that the law at present on the statute books has not met the situation and what is needed is a law that will place the responsibility for the existence of vice in the tenements on the shoulders of the landlords. This, the committee says, the legislation proposed by the tenement house commission will do.

Mitchell Wants to See Morgan.

New York, March 25.—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' union, is in this city with the intention of seeing J. Pierpont Morgan and the heads of the important coal companies to consult about the situation in the coal fields, for the purpose, if possible, of averting a strike.

Beguiling Childhood.

When my little son could scarcely walk, says Rev. C. T. Brady, a western missionary, I took him to the cathedral one day, when I returned for something I had forgotten after morning service.

I left the child in the nave, and when I went back to him he had advanced half way up the middle aisle and was standing where the sun threw a golden light about his curly head. A tiny object he was in that great church.

It was very still. He was looking about in every direction in the most curious and eager way. To my fancy he seemed like a little angel when he said in his sweet, childish treble, which echoed and re-echoed beneath the vaulted roof:

"Papa, where's Jesus? Where's Jesus?"

He had been told that the church was the house of the Saviour, and on this, his first, visit he expected to see his Lord.

That baby is quite grown up now. Not in the faintest particular does he resemble an angel. The other day, when I rode off to the wars, he astonished even me with this request:

"Papa, if you get wounded, don't forget to bring me the bullet that knocks you out. I want it for a souvenir for my collection."

Fortunately for me, if unfortunately for him, I brought him no bullet.

SPREADING THE COSPEL

Washington, March 25.—The Washington annual meeting of the American Tract society was held in the Gunton-Temple Memorial church, the Rev. Masa S. Fiske, pastor, presiding. The Rev. Judson Swift, field secretary of New York, presented a brief report of the society's work. General O. O. Howard delivered an earnest address, setting forth the object and needs of the society. He gave from his own experience a somewhat detailed account of the tract society's work in the army, emphasizing how much good it accomplished during the recent Spanish war. He also told of what was being done in our island possessions. General Howard is the society's president, and is deeply interested in its work.

The secretary's report stated that the society was organized "to diffuse a knowledge of Christ as the Redeemer of sinners." In this work it has issued between 13,000,000 and 14,000,000 distinct publications at home and in the foreign field. The society, through its system of colportage, strives to carry the gospel message to the millions that are unreached by the churches. During 59 years of colportage over 15,000,000 family visits have been made, and nearly 10,000,000 families have been prayed with or spoken to on the subject of personal religion, while 16,500,000 pages of Christian reading have been left in their homes.

The society has been able to publish the gospel truth in 153 languages or dialects, and has aided the denominational mission boards in their work at home and abroad. During the year between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 pages of Christian literature in the Spanish language have been distributed in our island possessions, and 1,000,000 pages of selected reading have been distributed to the army and navy.

An effort is being made in Utah to place tracts in every Mormon home, by means of colporteur wagons and colporters, thus reaching the children and youth. New publications have been issued during the year in English, Spanish, Polish and German.

An earnest appeal is made for an increase of funds.

Stroudsburg, Pa., March 25.—In connection with the annual session of the Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal conference Bishop I. W. Joyce delivered an address on Christ's instructions to preachers in the Methodist Episcopal church. He said in part: "There is nothing so bad in the world as human nature, yet men should not be despised for wrongs committed in the past. The true preacher will not be continually nagging men for their faults; like the good shepherd, he will seek the wandering ones and not pelt them with stones, but lift them on their shoulders and bring them back to their true home. He urged the young men to take the master with them wherever they went, and then the coldest churches would be the most cheerful. It is not where you are, but what you are that brings success.

It is not so much what the preacher says, but how he says it. Do not have too much vinegar in your makeup. Service for Christ always pays.

An Ugly Stone Figure Worshipped by Peasants of Brittany.

Even false religions die hard, and there are reminders of all extinct faiths still existing in the world. One of the most curious relics of paganism which are still worshipped in a Christian country is the gigantic black stone figure of a woman which is to be found in a forest of the district of Morbihan, in Brittany.

It is known as the "Black Venus," but probably dates far back of the time when the Greeks and Romans worshipped that goddess. Antiquarians assert that this ugly idol belongs to the age of the serpent worshippers, one of whose subterranean temples is in the neighborhood. This would make the figure far older than the Christian era.

The statue is that of a huge, uncouth woman, with a sullen, angry countenance, her form enveloped in a loose mantle.

The superstitious Bretons have always worshipped the figure, asserting that it has power over the weather and the crops. If the idol is neglected, they declare that the grain dies on the ear, and if the anger of the black woman is further roused a tidal wave sweeps over Morbihan.

Twice the stone was cast into the sea by pious folk who hoped thereby to put an end to this idolatry, and twice the peasants dragged it back and set up an altar before it.

About two centuries ago Count Pierre de Lannion, on whose estate the figure stood, in order to save the statue from both friends and enemies, dragged it by 40 yoke of oxen to his own chateau and set it up in the courtyard. He cut an inscription on the base of the pedestal, declaring the figure to be a Venus carved by Caesar's soldiers.

The count and his chateau are both gone, but the huge black woman, overgrown with moss, still stands in the forest, and the peasants still beseech her to bless their crops.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. See that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of night lights and yet let him have sunshine. Talk to him; talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread soaked in milk, lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of egg, sometimes a little fruit, a nut and lots of good things and let him eat or reject as he pleases.

Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little 10 cent looking glass will add greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

His Mistake.

"Here's a story where a fellow calls his girl's hair golden, and the accompanying picture shows it's only plaited."

THE WINNING TICKET.

The primaries are over and the Republican district and county ticket is in the field, and any and all Republicans can and will give it their hearty support. While there is naturally some disappointment here and there over the defeat of some candidate, such disappointment is inevitable in any campaign. The primaries have settled the local contests for positions; that is what primaries are for. The whole ticket deserves and will receive the vote of the Republican party of Columbiana county. The majority rules, and the majority has made the nominations.

Personally, no objection can be raised to any nominee. All are true and earnest Republicans; all are men of character, standing and ability; all will make faithful public servants. The fact that, for some of the principal positions, those now holding them were renominated without opposition, shows how satisfactorily their public duties have been performed. For the other places, as we have stated before, there was not a weak or unknown candidate in the field. Good men have been selected for all the offices to be filled; they will be elected, and we have no doubt their official record will be creditable to themselves and to Columbiana county. It is a ticket that deserves and will receive a rousing Republican majority next fall.

HERBERT'S DEFEAT.

A large majority of the people of East Liverpool and of the southern half of the county wanted Sherman T. Herbert nominated for county treasurer. They have only themselves to blame that he was not nominated. The stay-at-home voters defeated him. Had he received the 700 or 800 Republican votes in this city, to which he was entitled and a majority of which would have doubtless been his had all Republicans gone to the polls, he would have been nominated with many votes to spare. Instead he was turned down, and the office goes to a section of the county which has already captured a large number of official prizes.

We are not carping or criticising. The result of the primaries we cheerfully accept as final. But we desire to show East Liverpool what might have been, in the hope that the lesson may be of use in the future. Mr. Thompson, the nominee, is an able and experienced business man, who, as county treasurer, will look after the interests of the people as well as any man who ever held the office in the county. We have every confidence in him, and, now that he is nominated, urge every Republican to vote for him. Mr. Herbert is a man of equal capabilities and of the same strong, manly qualities. Had he not been wounded in the house of his friends the office would have been his. How long will it take the voters to learn that the real issues of a campaign are decided at the primaries, and that the party man who does not turn out and vote at that time is not doing his full duty as a citizen and as a Republican?

PRIVATE DALZELL'S AMBITION.

Private Dalzell, once of Ohio, but of recent years of Washington city, is a candidate for appointment as justice of the peace for the District of Columbia, under the new code for the district, adopted in the closing hours of congress. He was for years a unique figure in Ohio politics. Since his removal to Washington he has been practicing law, and some years ago was admitted to practice before the supreme court. The private has served in the Ohio legislature and is honored by those who know him most intimately. He is an extremist in some of his views and somewhat erratic in other respects, but he is a bright, brainy man, whose thinking apparatus and his pen are always in working order. He has been one of the best friends of the veteran soldiers and has spent his time, labor and money freely in their behalf.

It would rejoice his numerous friends in Ohio, as well as in the G. A. R. throughout the union, to see him succeed in his ambition and become comfortably settled in a berth where he could spend his declining days in comfort, for Fortune has dealt rather harshly with him in recent years.

The News Review issued no fake extras on the primaries, and printed nothing until the actual results were known. Then it issued a paper, giving the facts as they stand today. The statements made in our 11 p. m. edition of Saturday stood confirmed this morning. The edition was in great demand and all the papers printed were speedily sold. The people are learning where they must go to get the news, without fake trimmings or patent medicine cut adornments.

The Crisis, in an extra Saturday evening, announced the names of the winners at the primaries. There were four places being contested for, and that enterprising journal named the successful candidates early in the evening. Its guess was correct, with three exceptions, which is not bad for that journal, though almost any person at all familiar with the political situation could have made a better guess even before the polls opened.

It is no use repining over what might have been. That is the way East Liverpool feels today. Hurrah for the whole ticket!

A MUSICAL TREAT.

Mr. Workman's Exquisite Solo at St. Stephen's.

A large congregation was in attendance at St. Stephen's church last night and listened to a very profitable sermon on the "Prodigal's Reception." After the sermon the congregation was tendered a musical treat in a solo rendered by Mr. Workman, entitled "Beyond the Gates of Paradise." The singer is but 17 years of age, and has a remarkable bass voice. The solo was much enjoyed by the congregation.

Gates of the Land of Promise.

No one can watch a load of immigrants land without being struck by the astonishing signs of hope and confidence about them all. There has never been any exaggeration of this. Incredible as it may seem to one who knows how grim is the struggle for life among the masses in America, it is evident that this is still the land of promise to the poor of Europe.—Scribner's

Fremont's Ride.

A pretty story is told of how John C. Fremont informed his wife of the joyful news of his election as senator of California in 1850. The balloting of the delegates took place in San Jose, and Mrs. Fremont was at Monterey, and as a season of heavy rains was on there was but little prospect that her keen desire to know the result would find immediate gratification. Before a blazing fire that night sat Fremont's wife, her fingers for the first time fashioning a dress for herself on the trustworthy outlines of one that had been ripped up for the purpose. Her little daughter had been put to bed, and her companions for the evening were the Australian woman who had replaced her two Indian servants and her baby playing on the bearskin rug near the fire.

Besides the voice of the woman and an occasional chirrup from the baby she heard nothing but the storm without till the door opened and a man, dripping with rain, stood on the threshold and asked in consideration of his sorry plight if he might enter. It was Fremont. He had torn himself away from his idolizing followers and ridden out into the darkness and storm to tell his wife, 70 miles away, that he had been elected to the United States senate. Though it was late in the night when he reached Monterey, he was in the saddle again before dawn and on his way back to San Jose, making in all a ride of 140 miles.—Argonaut.

The Red Flag.

The red button and the red flag have been the emblem of labor and revolution for more than 3,000 years. In the ancient world the favorite colors of the aristocracy were white and azure blue, while red was plebeian. Minerva and Ceres, the goddesses of labor and agriculture, were always represented as dressed in flaming red, and the banners of the Greek and Roman trade unions were of the same color. The red flag nowhere in antiquity meant ferocity and slaughter, but rather typified the fact that all men, whether slaves or masters, had in their veins the same blood and in their nature the same humanity.

But in the frequent servile wars of Italy and Greece the red flag gradually became the emblem not of labor, but of revolt. At one time when the rebellious slaves and gladiators under Spartacus defeated three Roman armies the red flag was on the point of supplanting the eagle in the imperial city itself. It is related that the labor soldiers were so fanatically devoted to their flag that it was the custom of their generals when in battle to hurl it far into the enemy's ranks and so compel its devotees to rush forward and recover it.—New York Post.

ALL SUBSCRIBERS

PLEASE NOTE

The publishers of the News Review are striving to improve their system of distribution of papers to subscribers and hope to have all ground for complaint removed in a short time. Failure to receive papers should be reported, first to the carrier, and then, if not remedied, to the business office of the News Review. While the carriers and agents, and not we, are responsible for the delivery of papers, we desire and aim to have the wishes of all subscribers promptly looked after.

The system adopted, as it is perhaps new to some of our readers, may recarriers. It sells the papers to agents who either distribute them themselves or employ boys to do so. Just as soon as a subscription is received at this office, the subscriber's name and address is turned over to the carrier on that route. The carrier is required to deliver the paper and also to collect the money for it. We desire to have it distinctly understood that the agents and carriers are in business for themselves, rather than for us, and while we help them all we can, and intend that their work shall be done in the most satisfactory manner, they are in no sense of the word our employees.

Order the paper at this office or from any carrier or agent, and pay the carrier for it. If the service is not satisfactory after a fair trial, let us know and we will do our best to make it so.

A Bad Judge.

Some years ago King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, was a guest at a country house in England, and, picking up a sporting paper in the billiard room one morning, was soon deep in its contents. A clergyman, also a guest, noticed this, and, sidling up, asked in a tone that was meant to carry reproof, "Is your royal highness really interested in that paper?"

The prince glanced around, "I never read anything I do not feel interested in," he remarked.

The clergyman, though, would not be denied. "Do you know, your royal highness, that one of my friends has lost hundreds of pounds by betting on horse racing and has never won anything?" he asked.

OPINION IS CHANGING

RADICALS SEEK AN EXCUSE

Havana, March 25.—The action of the Republican party in Santiago in endorsing the Platt amendment and instructing Senors Gomez and Ferrer, of the Santiago delegation to the constitutional convention, to vote for the amendment, together with the letters of General Sanguilly and the mayor of Cienfuegos, advising acceptance, were incidents of last week, and tended to clear up the political atmosphere, until now there are few who do not expect the convention to approve the amendment.

The visit of American senators and congressmen had an excellent effect, as in no instance have the radicals received any encouragement in the notion that if action is delayed until the next congress there might be a change in the demands of the United States.

The radicals, however, insist that they cannot recede from their former position without loss of dignity, and they still hope that some concession, no matter how insignificant, may provide a sufficient excuse.

Already the radicals are taking their cue from the conservatives and pointing out that commercial interests demand recognition. There is a possibility of uniting the convention along this line. The platform of the conservatives calls for a reduction of American import duties on tobacco and sugar and approves any scheme of relations which the United States government sees fit to impose.

In fact, the situation is leading to a point where commercial interests will be the chief question under discussion at the next session of the convention, and it is not unlikely that a resolution will be adopted asking for a reciprocity treaty.

MUTILATED HERSELF.

Woman Used Scissors, While Probably Temporarily Insane.

Toledo, O., March 25.—Mrs. G. Brunscheider, residing near the city limits, occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital and is in a serious condition as the result of horrible injuries self-inflicted.

Armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all toes of her left foot, both her ears close to the head, and about an inch of her nose. She then cut out a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in the left cheek, and finally began on her arms. Beginning at her left forearm, she removed every vestige of skin, laying bare the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home in the morning and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition. A surgeon was called at once and she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Sat Alone in a Chair a Charred and Blackened Corpse.

Pittsburg, March 25.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Port Perry some time Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Riling, a widow, aged 76, was found suffocated to death in her home there. She lived by herself in a four-roomed house, although a son, Daniel Riling, lived in the village.

In the room in which she slept flames had entirely destroyed the bed and chairs, but no trace of Mrs. Riling could be found.

In the kitchen she was found apparently asleep in a big rocking chair. Upon examination it was found she was dead and horribly burned. Deputy Coroner Huchel was summoned and held an inquest. It developed that Mrs. Riling kept a coal fire burning in her bed room. It is surmised that a live coal falling onto the carpet set fire to it. When discovered by the woman, it had evidently gained much headway and before she could escape from the room her night robes caught fire.

Mrs. Riling was rather feeble and it is thought she was overcome by the dense smoke and swooned in the chair in the kitchen while trying to reach the rear door.

Americans Congratulated Diaz.

Mexico City, March 25.—The members of the American embassy staff, headed by Charge d'Affaires Fenton McReery, called on President Diaz, at the national palace and congratulated him on his restoration to his usual health. The president was in excellent spirits and much gratified at this manifestation of good will.

BURNING OIL FLOWED.

11 Buildings and Other Property Destroyed—Railway Tracks Damaged—Peculiar Accident.

New York, March 25.—A river of flaming oil swept down upon the little village of Glengardner, N. J., while its inhabitants were asleep and reduced 11 buildings, stores and residences to ashes.

The village is in a valley, along the line of the Jersey Central railroad.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The engine on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sidewise across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in out-buildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

Threats Against Players.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

The following towboats passed this city Saturday and yesterday: Down—William G. Horner, Jim Wood. Up—Charles Hook, Ed Roberts.

The Princess brought a tow of sand to this city yesterday afternoon and immediately returned to Pittsburg. The Kanawha had a very large passenger list, bringing about 69 passengers to this city.

JAPAN SENDS FLEET

MOST JAPS AGAINST RUSSIA

London, March 25.—“A Japanese squadron, Admiral Tsushima commanding, left Nagasaki Saturday for Korea,” says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. “The general opinion here is that the situation is serious. Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense. “The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy.”

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pu San. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. Pavloff, Russian minister at Seoul, protested against Korea taking foreigners into the government service with the exception of Russians and demanded the appointment of the latter, but Korea seemed determined with the help of the powers, to defend her integrity.

JEWS KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 25.—Twelve men assaulted in Chicago each day for no other reason than that they are Jews, with the average of one death a year growing out of these assaults, were figures presented at an indignation meeting of Jewish peddlers. The police, the speakers declare, make little effort to protect members of their race from the attacks of hoodlums. In several instances, it was said, the police had looked on when such attacks were being made and failed to interfere.

After half a dozen speakers had spoken on the protest, the Chicago Protective league was organized to demand that the police protect the Jews. A committee was appointed to perfect the organization and arrange for a mass meeting next week for the purpose of arousing public interest in the movement.

RAIDS BY REFORMERS.

Number of Prisoners Let Out on Bail in New York.

New York, March 25.—Justice Jerome, of the court of special sessions, visited five police stations and admitted to bail 33 prisoners who were captured late Saturday night in several raids made by the committee of fifteen.

The proprietor and night clerk of the Hotel Virginia; Henry McGurk, alleged manager of the Brighton Music hall, otherwise known as “McGurk’s suicide hall,” with a singer and housekeeper of the same place, and a colored woman captured in the “Berlin,” were each held in $500 bail. The other prisoners, who included managers, barkeepers and other persons connected with the “Savoy,” “Royal Garden” and the “Pekin” were each held in $300 bail.

Accused of Murdering a Girl.

Middlebury, Vt., March 25.—Nelson Jones, about 25 years of age, of Shoreham, was lodged in jail on a warrant charging him with the murder of Miss Ida Fosburgh, at Shoreham, on March 12, by poisoning. The young woman was engaged to be married to Aldace Vondette, who was recently charged with having caused her death and who after being held a few days was released.

Accordingly.

“She’s well educated, isn’t she?” “Well, she’s one of those women who can pass as being that way. When she meets any one who can speak French and not German, she can speak German, and when she meets any one who can speak German and not French she can speak French.”—Indianapolis Sun.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

ASTER is certainly the season for dainty gowns and soft laces. My lady casts aside her Lenten garments of black and purple, and arrays herself like the spring flowers in robes of the fairest tints. Over her masses of fluffy hair she tilts a hat covered with roses, which cast deep pink shadows on her cheeks. Her gown is pale and clinging, and her dimpled chin rests among the frills of a chiffon or lace boa, which accentuates her youth and grace. Truly the Easter girl is always fair, but this year she is fairer than ever. Never before have the fashions been so artistic and so well calculated to enhance the charms of a pretty woman. Take the very dress materials themselves, for instance; they are all soft and clinging. Veilings, crepe de chine, and grenadines are the fabrics for dressy gowns, and the ever popular foulard is relegated to the second place. As for the colors, they are a little brighter this season, but they still follow the pastel shades—mauve, cafe au lait, pearl, pale rose, pale blue and Nile green. All shades of red and green are being much used by the fashionable dressmakers, and as the season advances they are more and more in evidence. Old rose is just as popular this spring as it was last winter, and nothing makes a prettier gown for a brunette than an old rose veiling trimmed with black chantilly lace. Speaking of veilings, many of them come beautifully embroidered in a lace pattern, and others come with a border of gold applique.

After a long exile challies have come to the front once more. Last summer a few fashionable women had seashore gowns made of this material, and in every case they were admired. This year any number of people are having are many. In the first place, it is soft and silky, lending itself to tuckings and shirrings; secondly, it comes in all the delicate patterns and shadings of organdie, and, lastly, it will stand any amount of dampness and hard wear.

dresses made of it. Its good qualities

Foulards will always be used more or less by people who like to wear a silk gown. Most of the foulards this season come with a satin finish even more lustrous than last year. The more dressy ones are pale colored mauve, pearl gray or pale green. There is a new material called waterproof foulard, but this remains to be tested by actual wear. Many of the newest designs, both in challies and foulards, are Persian, and, indeed, at a little distance they produce the effect of the pannes we have been wearing all winter.

The new muslins are dainty in the extreme. Pale blue is the favorite color and dotted muslin the leading material. These blue gowns are very pretty for young girls. They are made over soft silk slips of the same color and are trimmed with black and sometimes a touch of the palest yellow. The thin materials come hemstitched, embroidered or tucked with broad lace insertions. Fashion demands this year that all pretentious gowns shall be covered with fine needlework and that the trimmings shall be dainty instead of striking. Dashes of color are supplied by huge rosettes of contrasting color or bows of black velvet. Beadings through which tiny black velvet ribbons are run form a prominent feature of many gowns. Sashes are also all the style for those who can afford them. They come very wide and most beautifully tinted in Persian flower designs, so that they cost small fortunes. This is a ribbon season, and soft panne and glace ribbons are much used. These are crumpled into smart bows, and the latest thing is the mixture of several shades in one bow. However, they must be variations of the same color; for instance, the reds from coral to ox blood and the mauve orchid tints. Broad lace scarfs are also used for bows and sashes.

The new shirt waists do not differ greatly from those worn during the winter. They are not quite so plain, and the sleeves are made in the bishop style—full at the wrists. The principal novelty is in the collar. There is a growing tendency to softness, and many of the more expensive blouses have turndown collars of sheer batiste, hemstitched and tucked. A ribbon may or may not be worn beneath these, just as one's fancy dictates. Dressy waists are being made of crepe de chine. These are very much tucked and trimmed with lace.

The blouse and the Eton jacket prevail for street suits. Plain tailor mades are only worn by a very few women. The Etons are made with postilion backs for stout women and are cut short and rather baggy for the slender and youthful. Little fancy coats of black panne and tucked satin are replacing the taffeta affairs of last season. These are invariably lined with cream or pearl gray satin, and they are meant to be worn with fluffy fronts and directoire jabots. As for the skirts, they are being made almost plain in the back for those who can stand that style. The thin materials, however, are full in at the hips.

Never has the Easter hat been so pretty. This is a rose season, and the smartest creations are fairly loaded down with these flowers. As regards shapes the milliners have been kind to people with irregular features. There is no one set style, and the brims all curl softly to suit the different faces. The crowns are low, but not so flat as during the winter season. Chiffon is a favorite material, and when tucked and combined with lace it forms the dressiest of all headgear. Hats made entirely out of ribbon are a novelty, and marquis hats of crepe are very pretty when made in pale blue pink or yellow and trimmed with big choux of black net. Large buckles of pearl and jet ornament the handsomer lace and tulle hats.

This is a season of small accessories, and the woman who wants to appear well dressed cannot afford to ignore this fact. The smart woman will provide herself with chiffon boas, lace collars, crinkled satin and velvet bows for the hair to match her different gowns and big choux of contrasting shades to wear with her light dresses. Marie Antoinette fichus are being worn more than ever and short lace boleros with long ends which tie. In choosing these little articles of dress it is only necessary to consider one's individual style. There are designs for every one, and there is no excuse for the woman who looks prim or mannish this season.

During the trip the club will play exhibition games in Ft. Wayne, Indianapolis, Ash-Tabula, Terre Haute, Toledo, Dunkirk and several other smaller towns.

The team will return to Buffalo about the middle of April, at which time it is expected they will be in the pink of condition.

OPINION IS CHANGING

RADICALS SEEK AN EXCUSE

Havana, March 25.—The action of the Republican party in Santiago in endorsing the Platt amendment and instructing Senors Gomez and Ferrer, of the Santiago delegation to the constitutional convention, to vote for the amendment, together with the letters of General Sanguilly and the mayor of Cienfuegos, advising acceptance, were incidents of last week, and tended to clear up the political atmosphere, until now there are few who do not expect the convention to approve the amendment.

The visit of American senators and congressmen had an excellent effect, as in no instance have the radicals received any encouragement in the notion that if action is delayed until the next congress there might be a change in the demands of the United States.

The radicals, however, insist that they cannot recede from their former position without loss of dignity, and they still hope that some concession, no matter how insignificant, may provide a sufficient excuse.

Already the radicals are taking their cue from the conservatives and pointing out that commercial interests demand recognition. There is a possibility of uniting the convention along this line. The platform of the conservatives calls for a reduction of American import duties on tobacco and sugar and approves any scheme of relations which the United States government sees fit to impose.

In fact, the situation is leading to a point where commercial interests will be the chief question under discussion at the next session of the convention, and it is not unlikely that a resolution will be adopted asking for a reciprocity treaty.

MUTILATED HERSELF.

Woman Used Scissors, While Probably Temporarily Insane.

Toledo, O., March 25.—Mrs. G. Brunshaeider, residing near the city limits, occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital and is in a serious condition as the result of horrible injuries self-inflicted.

Armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all toes of her left foot, both her ears close to the head, and about an inch of her nose. She then cut out a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in the left cheek, and finally began on her arms. Beginning at her left forearm, she removed every vestige of skin, laying bare the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home in the morning and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition. A surgeon was called at once and she was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Sat Alone in a Chair a Charred and Blackened Corpse.

Pittsburg, March 25.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Port Perry some time Saturday night. Mrs. Mary Riling, a widow, aged 76, was found suffocated to death in her home there. She lived by herself in a four-roomed house, although a son, Daniel Riling, lived in the village.

In the room in which she slept flames had entirely destroyed the bed and chairs, but no trace of Mrs. Riling could be found.

In the kitchen she was found apparently asleep in a big rocking chair. Upon examination it was found she was dead and horribly burned. Deputy Coroner Huchel was summoned and held an inquest. It developed that Mrs. Riling kept a coal fire burning in her bed room. It is surmised that a live coal falling onto the carpet set fire to it. When discovered by the woman, it had evidently gained much headway and before she could escape from the room her night robes caught fire.

Mrs. Riling was rather feeble and it is thought she was overcome by the dense smoke and swooned in the chair in the kitchen while trying to reach the rear door.

Americans Congratulated Diaz.

Mexico City, March 25.—The members of the American embassy staff, headed by Charge d'Affaires Fenton McReery, called on President Diaz, at the national palace and congratulated him on his restoration to his usual health. The president was in excellent spirits and much gratified at this manifestation of good will.

BURNING OIL FLOWED.

11 Buildings and Other Property Destroyed—Railway Tracks Damaged—Peculiar Accident.

New York, March 25.—A river of flaming oil swept down upon the little village of Glengardner, N. J., while its inhabitants were asleep and reduced 11 buildings, stores and residences to ashes.

The village is in a valley, along the line of the Jersey Central railroad.

A few miles west of the village, while coming down an incline around the mountain, the train parted. The engine on the forward part pulled open the throttle of the engine and tried to race away from the section, which was increasing its speed every second.

He managed to keep clear of the racing cars until he got opposite the depot at Glengardner, when the second section smashed into the first.

The first section, composed of coal cars, was going at a high rate of speed and none of its cars were jolted off the track. The forward car, one of the oil tanks of the runaway section, was hurled sidewise across the tracks, and the oil tank cars behind it were piled up on top of it in every way.

The first crash caused the oil in one of the tank cars to explode and ignite, and the terrific heat caused the other cars to explode one after the other.

The incline running from the depot down to the main street acted as a sluice for the burning oil, and it poured into the chief thoroughfare of the village, setting fire to things. Buildings, houses, fences, trees, shrubbery and barns were reduced to ashes in an incredibly short time.

Villagers awakened by the explosion rushed from the oncoming flood of blazing oil, carrying children in their arms. Some risked their lives to free horses, cows and dogs in outbuildings, but other unfortunate animals could not be reached in time, and were burned.

From the wrecked cars the oil also flowed down the incline of the railroad track, making a long line of fire that destroyed the ties and bent and twisted the tracks. The loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

SNOWSTORM IN THE WEST.

Some Trains Stalled in Colorado and Western Kansas.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—A storm prevailed over the state of Colorado, in some places reaching the proportions of a blizzard. Snow has fallen to a depth of from three to ten inches. The storm continued last night, with severity on the mountains, blocking railroads and traffic generally. Already cattlemen have suffered losses and fears are entertained that the loss will be greatly increased before the storm is ended. All trains from the east are delayed in Western Kansas.

Regular trains on the Colorado Southern between here and Leadville have been abandoned, as the cuts are filled with snow. In some places it is about ten inches on the level and much deeper on the mountains. Reports from Lamar, Colo., state that the storm is driving the cattle along with it and undoubtedly many will die from exposure. Reports from the vicinity of Casper, Wyo., show similar weather conditions there.

MASKED MEN ANNOYED HIM.

Persecution of a Farmer in Wayne County, Ohio.

Wooster, O., March 25.—Daniel A. Lawrence, one of the wealthiest farmers of Wayne county, is said to be on the verge of mental collapse, the result of being harassed by men who, he believes, have been hired to assassinate him. Lawrence and his family, for several weeks, at all hours of the night, have seen masked men prowling around their home.

The men have made no attempt to steal, but they have frequently broken locks and let the cattle and horses out of the stables. Mr. Lawrence, on Friday night, with some of his neighbors, kept watch. About midnight four men wearing masks approached the house. When commanded to halt they ran. They were pursued, but managed to escape. A dog which followed one of the men was shot. It is believed that one of the men was wounded. The farmers are aroused and there may be a lynching if Mr. Lawrence's persecutors are captured.

Threats Against Players.

New York, March 25.—President Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn baseball club, made the official statement that the players who have deserted the club will be proceeded against in case they fail to report as ordered.

JAPAN SENDS FLEET

MOST JAPS AGAINST RUSSIA

London, March 25.—"A Japanese squadron, Admiral Tsushima commanding, left Nagasaki Saturday for Korea," says the Yokohama correspondent of The Daily Mail. "The general opinion here is that the situation is serious. Urgent instructions have been issued by the minister of war, General Viscount Katsura, to the commanders of the forts to attend a conference in Tokio to consider questions of home defense.

"The war rumors are causing a fall in prices on the various bourses. The feeling of the country is uneasy and intensely anti-Russian, but the cabinet shows no indication of its policy."

Yokohama, March 25.—Advices from Seoul announce that the Korean government dismissed from office Mr. McLeavy Brown, director general of Korean customs and that Great Britain is protesting against his dismissal.

London, March 25.—The dismissal of Mr. McLeavy Brown from the post of director general of Korean customs was regarded by certain persons in London as another score for Russia. In 1895 and again in 1898, Russian pressure was exerted to procure his removal. In the latter case he was only reinstated after a British squadron had moved to Chemulpo.

As recently as a few months ago Russia strongly opposed an attempt by Mr. Brown to raise a loan for the Korean government to purchase shares in the railway from Seoul to Pu San. As a result of her opposition the negotiation for the loan failed.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail asserts that M. Pavloff, Russian minister at Seoul, protested against Korea taking foreigners into the government service with the exception of Russians and demanded the appointment of the latter, but Korea seemed determined with the help of the powers, to defend her integrity.

JEWS KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 25.—Twelve men assaulted in Chicago each day for no other reason than that they are Jews, with the average of one death a year growing out of these assaults, were figures presented at an indignation meeting of Jewish peddlers. The police, the speakers declare, make little effort to protect members of their race from the attacks of hoodlums. In several instances, it was said, the police had looked on when such attacks were being made and failed to interfere.

After half a dozen speakers had spoken on the protest, the Chicago Protective league was organized to demand that the police protect the Jews. A committee was appointed to perfect the organization and arrange for a mass meeting next week for the purpose of arousing public interest in the movement.

RAIDS BY REFORMERS.

Number of Prisoners Let Out on Bail in New York.

New York, March 25.—Justice Jerome, of the court of special sessions, visited five police stations and admitted to bail 33 prisoners who were captured late Saturday night in several raids made by the committee of fifteen.

The proprietor and night clerk of the Hotel Virginia; Henry McGurk, alleged manager of the Brighton Music hall, otherwise known as "McGurk's suicide hall," with a singer and housekeeper of the same place, and a colored woman captured in the "Berlin," were each held in $500 bail. The other prisoners, who included managers, barkeepers and other persons connected with the "Savoy," "Royal Garden" and the "Pekin" were each held in $300 bail.

Accused of Murdering a Girl.

Middlebury, Vt., March 25.—Nelson Jones, about 25 years of age, of Shoreham, was lodged in jail on a warrant charging him with the murder of Miss Ida Fosburgh, at Shoreham, on March 12, by poisoning. The young woman was engaged to be married to Aldace Vondette, who was recently charged with having caused her death and who after being held a few days was released.

Accordingly.

"She's well educated, isn't she?" "Well, she's one of those women who can pass as being that way. When she meets any one who can speak French and not German, she can speak German, and when she meets any one who can speak German and not French she can speak French."—Indianapolis Sun.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

ASTER is certainly the season for dainty gowns and soft laces. My lady casts aside her Lenten garments of black and purple, and arrays herself like the spring flowers in robes of the fairest tints. Over her masses of fluffy hair she tilts a hat covered with roses, which cast deep pink shadows on her cheeks. Her gown is pale and clinging, and her dimpled chin rests among the frills of a chiffon or lace boa, which accentuates her youth and grace. Truly the Easter girl is always fair, but this year she is fairer than ever. Never before have the fashions been so artistic and so well calculated to enhance the charms of a pretty woman. Take the very dress materials themselves, for instance; they are all soft and clinging. Veilings, crepe de chine, and grenadines are the fabrics for dressy gowns, and the ever popular foulard is relegated to the second place. As for the colors, they are a little brighter this season, but they still follow the pastel shades—mauve, cafe au lait, pearl, pale rose, pale blue and Nile green. All shades of red and green are being much used by the fashionable dressmakers, and as the season advances they are more and more in evidence. Old rose is just as popular this spring as it was last winter, and nothing makes a prettier gown for a brunette than an old rose veiling trimmed with black chantilly lace. Speaking of veilings, many of them come beautifully embroidered in a lace pattern, and others come with a border of gold applique.

After a long exile challies have come to the front once more. Last summer a few fashionable women had seashore gowns made of this material, and in every case they were admired. This year any number of people are having are many. In the first place, it is soft and silky, lending itself to tuckings and shirrings; secondly, it comes in all the delicate patterns and shadings of organdie, and, lastly, it will stand any amount of dampness and hard wear.

Dresses made of it. Its good qualities

Foulards will always be used more or less by people who like to wear a silk gown. Most of the foulards this season come with a satin finish even more lustrous than last year. The more dressy ones are pale colored mauve, pearl gray or pale green. There is a new material called waterproof foulard, but this remains to be tested by actual wear. Many of the newest designs, both in challies and foulards, are Persian, and, indeed, at a little distance they produce the effect of the pannes we have been wearing all winter.

The new muslins are dainty in the extreme. Pale blue is the favorite color and dotted muslin the leading material. These blue gowns are very pretty for young girls. They are made over soft silk slips of the same color and are trimmed with black and sometimes a touch of the palest yellow. The thin materials come hemstitched, embroidered or tucked with broad lace insertions. Fashion demands this year that all pretentious gowns shall be covered with fine needlework and that the trimmings shall be dainty instead of striking. Dashes of color are supplied by huge rosettes of contrasting color or bows of black velvet. Beadings through which tiny black velvet ribbons are run form a prominent feature of many gowns. Sashes are also all the style for those who can afford them. They come very wide and most beautifully tinted in Persian flower designs, so that they cost small fortunes. This is a ribbon season, and soft panne and glace ribbons are much used. These are crumpled into smart bows, and the latest thing is the mixture of several shades in one bow. However, they must be variations of the same color; for instance, the reds from coral to ox blood, and the mauve orchid tints. Broad lace scarfs are also used for bows and sashes.

The new shirt waists do not differ greatly from those worn during the winter. They are not quite so plain, and the sleeves are made in the bishop style—full at the wrists. The principal novelty is in the collar. There is a growing tendency to softness, and many of the more expensive blouses have turndown collars of sheer batiste, hemstitched and tucked. A ribbon may or may not be worn beneath these, just as one's fancy dictates. Dressy waists are being made of crepe de chine. These are very much tucked and trimmed with lace.

The blouse and the Eton jacket prevail for street suits. Plain tailor makes are only worn by a very few women. The Etons are made with postilion backs for stout women and are cut short and rather baggy for the slender and youthful. Little fancy coats of black panne and tucked satin are replacing the taffeta affairs of last season. These are invariably lined with cream or pearl gray satin, and they are meant to be worn with fluffy fronts and directoire jabots. As for the skirts, they are being made almost plain in the back for those who can stand that style. The thin materials, however, are full in at the hips.

Never has the Easter hat been so pretty. This is a rose season, and the smartest creations are fairly loaded down with these flowers. As regards shapes the milliners have been kind to people with irregular features. There is no one set style, and the brims all curl softly to suit the different faces. The crowns are low, but not so flat as during the winter season. Chiffon is a favorite material, and when tucked and combined with lace it forms the dressiest of all headgear. Hats made entirely out of ribbon are a novelty, and marquise hats of crepe are very pretty when made in pale blue pink or yellow and trimmed with big choux of black net. Large buckles of pearl and jet ornament the handsomer lace and tulle hats.

This is a season of small accessories, and the woman who wants to appear well dressed cannot afford to ignore this fact. The smart woman will provide herself with chiffon boas, lace collars, crinkled satin and velvet bows for the hair to match her different gowns and big choux of contrasting shades to wear with her light dresses. Marie Antoinette fichus are being worn more than ever and short lace boleros with long ends which tie. In choosing these little articles of dress it is only necessary to consider one's individual style. There are designs for every one, and there is no excuse for the woman who looks prim or mannish this season.

THIRTY-TWO MORE.

New Members Added to the Methodist Protestant Church—Interest in Revival Growing.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Notwithstanding the absence of Rev. N. M. Crowe, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the meetings which were commenced a week ago are growing in interest. The talented musician, Mr. D. C. Montgomery, has been singing the gospel. Sunday morning he very touchingly sang "A Dream of Paradise." At the evening service he sang "The Holy City." Rev. S. L. Boston preached two fine sermons yesterday and will preach every evening during this week.

Mr. Boston's morning sermon was based on the text, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed." His plea was for those who already profess Christianity to practice more of its principles. The people of Ephesus, to whom this question was propounded, knew only the baptism of John, and had "not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." The speaker referred to the special stress laid by some Christians upon what they term the proper mode of baptism. Whatever may have been the manner or mode pursued by John or the words which he used, it was not the form taught by Jesus, who said in connection with the church to go to all people in the world, "Baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." Holy Ghost religion is the kind needed today. When these early Christians had received this, they had power.

When Christians of today have the fire of the Holy Ghost, they have power, and without which they are powerless for good. The speaker was not, however, a believer in sinless perfection, and said that he was very skeptical of the man who comes to him and says, "I've quit sinning." He thought he was better able, because he recognized his own imperfections, at the same time his ardent desire to lead a holy life, to go to a man out of Christ and lead him into the fold than he would be were he to go to him professing present complete sanctification. He claimed that the well known lack of spirituality in the church is the cause of lack of interest of non-professors. He earnestly pleaded for the same kind of preliminary work as was done by the early Christians, who "continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, waiting for the infilling of the Holy Ghost."

The Christian Church.

A Legend of the Salty Sea.

There are hundreds of queer myths and traditions given to account for the fact that the sea is salt. The Arabs say that when the first pair sinned they were living in a beautiful garden on a tract of land joined to a mainland by a narrow neck or isthmus. When it became known to the Holy One that his people had sinned, he went to the garden for the purpose of driving them out and across the narrow neck of land into the patch of thorns and brambles on the other side. Anticipating what would be the consequence of their heinous crime, they had prepared to leave their beautiful garden and had actually gone so far as to send the children and goats across into the thicket.

When the Holy One appeared on the scene, the first pair started to run, but the woman looked back. For this the man cursed her and for such a crime was almost immediately turned into a block of salt. Compare with Genesis xix, 26. The woman, more forgiving than her husband, stooped to pick up the shapeless mass of salt, when immediately the narrow neck of land began to crack and break. As she touched what had once been her companion she, too, was turned to salt just as the neck of the land sank and the waters rushed through. From that day to this, the Arabs say, all the waters of the ocean have rushed through that narrow channel at least once a year, constantly wearing away the salt of what was once our first parents, yet the bulk of the two salty objects is not diminished in the least.

How General Butler Freed a Man.

General Butler's gift for springing out and taking advantage of every technicality was fully illustrated in the famous case of a respectably connected man in Boston, who, being afflicted with a mania for stealing, was brought to trial on four indictments. General Butler was the prisoner's counsel. If the prisoner was convicted on all four indictments, he would be liable to imprisonment for 60 years. As the court was assembling General Butler agreed with the counsel for the prosecution that three indictments should be quashed on condition that the prisoner should plead guilty to the one which charged the theft of the greatest amount.

The prisoner, to his amazement, was ordered by his counsel to plead guilty. "Say guilty, sir," said the general sternly. The man obeyed, and the other three indictments were not pressed. But when the counsel for the prosecution moved for sentence General Butler pointed out a fatal flaw, manifest to every one when attention was called to it. In ten minutes the astonished prisoner was a free man. It is said that the court laughed at the ruse, the cleverness of which it was impossible not to admire.

Slandering the Cook.

Here is something that a woman who knows says is a sure diagnosis of the status of the cook. If you have a good cook, you may be more or less sure that she will look too frequently upon the wine when it is red. It is an unfortunate fact, but if the cook is less than a $40 cook as little annoyance as possible may be expected from this weakness. Possibly it will never make itself manifest enough to be known above stairs. But if the cook has risen higher in the social scale of cooks than $40, then look out. A cook who is rated at over $40 may be expected to smash things.

If one chances to make a morning call at the house of a friend and discovers the servants crowded up stairs, frightened and trembling, while from below come the sounds of ironware skating across the kitchen and pottery crashing against the wall and between times the voice of the masculine head of the family gently expostulating or commanding in would be stern tones, then it may be known that that household has reached the dignity of a $50 or $60 cook.—New York Times.

Huxley and the Clergyman.

A rash clergyman once, without further equipment in natural history than some desultory reading, attacked the Darwinian theory in some sundry magazine articles in which he made himself uncommonly merry at Huxley's expense. This was intended to draw the great man's fire, and as the batteries remained silent the author proceeded to write to Huxley, calling his attention to the articles and at the same time, with mock modesty, asking advice as to the further study of these deep questions.

Huxley's answer was brief and to the point, "Take a cockroach and dissect it."—Argonaut.

Poison Proof Animals.

Neither differences of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the poisonous substance generally afford any clew for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the plant.

Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect is a different one, consisting of spasms. The meat of goats which had fed on hemlock has sometimes occasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nuxvomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it, while in the smallest amount it is a fatal poison to rodents.

More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Cholepus hoffmanni, a kind of sloth living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely sensitive to foxglove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.

"The only place, as far as law is concerned, where it costs money to die from natural causes is aboard a steamship," remarked a vessel owner. "The purpose of the law was excellent enough. There was a time when emigrants were being brought to this country in very large numbers, or 'by the shipload,' as it was termed. There is no doubt that there was crowding in the ships that brought them, and to prevent this a law was passed imposing upon the ship a fine of $10 for every death that occurred during the passage from natural causes of persons over 8 years of age. This put a stop to overcrowding, or, at least, it is supposed that it did, which is about the same thing. Ships do not fancy having to pay fines of this kind. "Of course, in comparison with the great army of persons who are brought across the ocean from month to month, there are very few deaths, for the statisticians have been kind enough to show beyond a doubt that the steamship is the safest means of transportation in existence, but, just the same, there are a considerable number in the course of a year."—Washington Star.

Epigrams in Fiction.

The quality of mercy should not be measured out by teaspoons in a medicine glass, but should be sent round in a watering cart by the county council.

They've no sense, men haven't. The very best of them don't properly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy that they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are a-wrestling with them.

It is the duty of all women to look happy—the married ones to show that they don't wish they weren't married, and the unmarried ones to show that they don't wish they were.—New York Telegram.

The Rector's Prophecy.

A party of gentlemen, including Professor Bailey and Rector Roberts, a divine widely celebrated for his wit and the audacity of his puns, were crossing the campus of a well known university.

The reverend gentleman, commenting on the fact of his recent elevation to the greater dignity and the assumption of the more resounding title of a canon of the church, exclaimed, "And now that I am a canon I suppose I shall be a bigger bore than ever."
